Introduction

Sheet music, a genre of printed music with many difficulties of definition and categorization, has posed a serious problem of bibliographic control to many libraries. Where scores of art music were consistently the beneficiaries of carefully developed cataloging rules, sheet music was typically either relegated to storerooms to await cataloging at some future but indeterminate date or subjected to a host of locally devised arranging and indexing schemes. The growth of studies in the music of the United States, and in vernacular music of all types, has at last created a demand for better access to these materials.

During the 1992 annual meeting of the Music Library Association, several interested individuals discussed developing a set of guidelines to facilitate cataloging collections of sheet music. Under the auspices of the Bibliographic Control Committee, the Working Group on Sheet Music Cataloging Guidelines was formed with Sarah Shaw as its chair, and Lois Schultz, Victor Cardell, and Calvin Elliker as members, with Virginia Gifford and Lois Kuyper-Rushing joining later.

The Working Group was charged with "evaluating current practices of cataloging of sheet music, and with formulating preliminary recommendations for a set of guidelines applicable to sheet music cataloging." The outcome of the Group's efforts was envisioned as "a point of departure in the process of developing more formal standards for sheet music cataloging." Finally, the Group was to "evaluate the effectiveness of existing general cataloging standards, such as Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules (cited as AACR2), for cataloging sheet music, and make suggestions for changes or additions to these standards as appropriate." From its inception, the Working Group devoted itself to developing guidelines that were informed by standards currently in place and would bring the same levels of access and uniformity to sheet music as those applied to other formats. At the same time, the Group was also determined to find ways in which the particular characteristics of sheet music would be recognized and reflected in the bibliographic record.

Throughout the years, and despite changes in its membership, the Working Group continued to study sheet music from a variety of perspectives: investigating such areas as covers and illustrated title pages, caption titles, edition statements, musical presentation statements, copy-specific information, printing methods, professional copies, and variant issues aimed at specific markets. The results of those studies are embodied in these guidelines, presenting approaches that conform to current standards for cataloging of scores, yet encouraging full expression of the complex features unique to sheet music. It is the sincere hope of all the Group's members that this document will provide valuable assistance to individuals and institutions cataloging this fascinating format.

The editors would like to express their appreciation to the Working Group for their sustained support. We are also grateful to the institutions that have supported our work by allowing us to travel to conferences, occasionally releasing us from our regular tasks to work on the Guidelines and allowing us to use examples from the collections. These generous institutions are: Brown University, Duke University, the Library of Congress, Louisiana State University, the Newberry Library, the University of California at Los Angeles, and the University of Michigan.

Using the Guidelines

These Guidelines have been formulated primarily for the use of catalogers in archives, libraries, and museums to assist them in the preparation of standard cataloging records in print or electronic format. The Working Group has attempted to apply a recognized standard, AACR2, to a difficult genre. The explanations of standard music cataloging practice are intended to aid nonmusic catalogers in the use of this tool. Other discussions, for instance, the musical presentation statement, are designed to expand the music cataloger's understanding of publishing practices somewhat peculiar to sheet music. As an annotation of the standard cataloging rules and instructions, the Guidelines must be used in tandem with them, although the editors have tried to provide sufficient quoted material that the user does not need to have multiple sets of rules open at once.

The basic format of the discussion in the Guidelines (chapters 1-3) is: quotation of portions of AACR2 or other rules, examples drawn from sheet music to illustrate the rules (many refer to the appendix for more complete information), and discussions of how to apply the principles of the rules to sheet music. Extensive quotations from a variety of cataloging tools are included, but the cataloger must use these Guidelines in conjunction with, not as a substitute for, the other resources. The text of AACR2 chapter 5, other appropriate rules (e.g., AACR2 chapter 1), Library of Congress Rule Interpretations (cited as LCRI), Cataloging Service Bulletin (cited as CSB), and Music Cataloging Bulletin (cited as MCB) are enclosed in borders with a thin, single line. Quotations from Descriptive Cataloging of Rare Books, second edition (cited as DCRB) are enclosed in borders with double lines. References within chapter 5 to rules in other chapters of AACR2 have been retained (e.g., "see 1.0F.") and, where pertinent, quoted. Rules applying to music cataloging are quoted, omitting paragraphs and sections concerned with other types of material (microforms and sound recordings, for instance). In many instances only a portion of a rule applies to sheet music, so some text has been omitted. Omissions have been indicated with ellipses (. . .). In order to more clearly illustrate how AACR2 applies to sheet music cataloging, many of the examples given in the AACR2 text have been replaced with examples specific to sheet music.

There are crucial sections about determining the title page and what should be treated as the chief source of information. The cataloger must be aware of the fact that sheet music generally does not have "covers" but rather "title pages." These pages may be illustrated, but the presence or absence of images does not change the definition of title page. This is an important distinction in the selection of the source of information to be used for title transcription. The casual use of the term "cover" by collectors and even by librarians makes the cataloging task more difficult, as it has obscured the definition of title page. The reader is encouraged to review the definitions of title page, edition, and musical presentation statement carefully. These terms are also discussed within the context of the rules. Reproductions of title pages and sample cataloging of many examples are found in the appendix. Every effort has been made to use "real" examples, although in a few instances slight alterations have been made in order to illustrate a point.

The preparation of electronic cataloging records has its own "language" (i.e., Machine Readable Cataloging, or MARC). Because the implementation of MARC is not uniform among the cataloging utilities (OCLC, RLIN, WLN, etc.), and the MARC format itself is subject to change, catalogers must, in an electronic environment, apply the MARC tags as instructed by their utilities and/or local practice. The Working Group has provided two versions of the cataloging. The first version has headers similar to public displays in online catalogs and the second version includes tags marked according to current OCLC usage.

The spelling and capitalization used in the Guidelines follow two different standards, depending on the context. The quotations from AACR2 follow British spelling conventions, the commentary in the Guidelines follows American practice. Capitalization in the Guidelines discussion follows the rules in the Chicago Manual of Style, but, where the intent is to show the actual cataloging, the prescribed capitalization from AACR2 is given. For instance, when "There's Something about a Soldier" appears in the list of illustrations for transcription of the title proper, all nouns and adjectives are capitalized. When the text refers to the transcription of the title in the cataloging record, then it is given as "There's something about a soldier."

The editors hope these Guidelines help to demystify sheet music cataloging for the less-experienced cataloger and, for some experienced music catalogers, answer quandaries, explain publishing practices, or suggest useful additions to cataloging records. Further, we hope that the Guidelines will generally aid efforts to bring more sheet music description and access into the electronic information environment, thus enriching both current and future library users with the wealth of social and music history hidden within each slim sheet music publication.

Chapter 1

Description of Sheet Music

Definition of Sheet Music

From the basic linguistic meanings of the component words, "sheet" and "music," it can be seen that in its most elemental sense, sheet music consists of musical notation printed on sheets of paper that remain unattached and unbound at the time of sale. From this basis, single sheets printed on one or both sides, folios (one sheet folded in half to form four pages), folios with a loose half-sheet inserted to yield six pages, double-folios (an inner folio inserted within the fold of an outer folio to make eight pages), and double-folios with a loose half-sheet inserted within the fold of an inner folio to produce ten pages, qualify as sheet music under this definition. Items surpassing the physical extent of these formats require thread, glue, staples, or some other type of fastener to keep their sheets organized and the items intact as bibliographical entities, and will likely have been issued with such fasteners. Items may be encountered that otherwise fit the parameters of this definition but include fasteners. It may be very difficult to determine whether these fasteners reflect the original state of the item or are the remains of postpurchase processes. In such cases, the extent of the item takes precedence over the presence of fasteners and determines if the item remains within the scope of this definition.

Thus, for the purposes of these guidelines, sheet music is defined purely by physical format. Some have suggested that sheet music applies only to "popular" music, but a close look at these publications over the course of history shows that the musical content of these publications is as varied as the history of music itself. Especially in the mid-nineteenth century a publisher may have issued sacred and secular songs, Lieder, opera excerpts, potpourris, waltzes, marches, and descriptive etudes side-by-side. Only the physical format remains constant. The difficulty is compounded by attempting to define "popular." A glimpse at the definitions in Webster's Third New International Dictionary (1966) is illuminating. Definition 4a seems the most relevant to sheet music: adapted to or indicative of the understanding and taste of the majority: easy to comprehend: not abstruse, complicated or profound: requiring no specialized knowledge to appreciate.

The problem words are "the understanding and taste of the majority" because what suits the majority of people during one period may be too sophisticated to another. Witness the popularity of opera arias in the mid-nineteenth century. Ordinary people sang and played arias from operas. Now we associate any form of opera with an elite group of "classical music" lovers. From the publisher's point of view, definition 4b makes the most sense, "suited to the financial means of the majority of people: moderate in cost: inexpensive."

But this definition seems too broad and commercial for our purposes. Charles Hamm addresses these problems and lists a number of characteristics of popular song.[1]

> A piece of music that is written for, and most often performed by, a single voice or a small group of singers, accompanied by either a single chord-playing instrument or some sort of band, ensemble, or small orchestra; > usually first performed and popularized in some form of secular stage entertainment, and afterward consumed (performed or listened to) in the home;
> composed and marketed with the goal of financial gain; > designed to be performed by and listened to by persons of limited musical training and ability; and > produced and disseminated in physical form—as sheet music in its early history, and in various forms of mechanical reproduction in the twentieth century.

In the end, the definition of sheet music by physical format at least limits the application of these guidelines to a manageable category of material. A cataloger may, of course, opt to apply some or all of the principles set forth here to items that may be longer (e.g., consisting of thirty pages) or differ from the definition in some other way.

Description of Sheet Music

AACR2

5.0. GENERAL RULES

5.0A. Scope

5.0A1. The rules in this chapter cover the description of published music. They do not cover manuscript or other unpublished music in detail, though the use of an additional term in the physical description (see 5.5B) and the use of the specific provisions of chapter 4 will furnish a sufficiently detailed description for the general library catalogue. . . .

5.0B. Sources of information

If information is not available from the chief source, take it from the following sources (in this order of preference):

caption
cover colophon other preliminaries other sources

2.0B1. Chief source of information. The chief source of information for printed monographs is the title page or, if there is no title page, the source from within the publication that is used as a substitute for it. For printed monographs published without a title page, or without a title page applying to the whole work . . . use the part of the item supplying the most complete information, whether this be the cover (excluding a separate book jacket), caption, colophon, running title, or other part. Specify the part used as a title page substitute in a note (see 2.7B3). If no part of the item supplies data that can be used as the basis of the description, take the necessary information from any available source. . . .

Use the colophon as the chief source of information for an oriental nonroman script publication if the colophon contains full bibliographic information. . . .

2.0B2. Prescribed sources of information. The prescribed source(s) of information for each area of the description of printed monographs is set out below. Enclose information taken from outside the prescribed source(s) in square brackets.

AREA	PRESCRIBED SOURCES OF INFORMATION
Title and statement of responsibility	Title page [see footnote]
Edition	Title page, other preliminaries, colophon
Publication, distribution, etc.	Title page, other preliminaries, colophon
Physical description	The whole publication
Series	Series title page, monograph title page, cover, rest of the publication
Note	Any source
Standard number and terms of availability	Any source

[footnote] Hereafter in this chapter, title page includes any substitute (including, for oriental publications, a colophon specified in 2.0B1 as a title page substitute).

Guidelines:

Identifying the Chief Source and Discussion of Various Types of Title Pages

Identifying the title page or chief source of information of a piece of sheet music is often difficult. Some of the confusion occurs because publishers frequently use a single design to issue with several titles. In some cases they seem to be simply saving the costs of designing and producing a different page. In others they are clearly trying to promote sales by advertising the motion picture, musical, opera, or other production associated with the work. Reproductions of the title pages of the examples are in the appendix.

A list title page is a title page that lists a group of related items available for purchase. Particulars of the item in hand are typically underlined or marked with a type ornament, such as a star, arrow, etc. A common practice was to use an elaborate frame or typographical ornament around the text.

As indicated by AACR2 5.0B1 above, the cataloger should transcribe the title information from caption, cover, colophon, other preliminaries, or other sources.

> Norse Lullaby by Reginald DeKoven (appendix, p. 134-37). The "Five lullabies with piano accompaniment" (series title) is found as part of the ornamental border. The opus number of the song appears only on the caption and not on the "list" title page. In this printing layout, the publisher would probably not add more titles to the list.

In addition to saving the cost of designing a new title page for each piece of music, publishers capitalize on visual recognition to enhance sales. In this practice, chiefly used for excerpts from motion pictures, musicals, and other production music, the basic design of the page emphasizes the title of the movie or musical, with the title of the excerpt at the top of the page and/or in a "list" box. The basic design of the page remains the same for all the excerpts, regardless of when they were issued. Sometimes a library's collection will include several copies of an excerpt where there are different titles included in the "list."

> Hallelujah (appendix, p. 100-103)

The most obvious text on this page is the title of the musical, Hit the Deck. The title of the excerpt is in fairly large type at the top of the page and in small type in the "list." As the publisher issued other songs from the show, titles were added in the "list." The cataloger should transcribe the title information from the caption title in this case. The Love Nest is another example with a more elaborate design. In this case, the "list" is fairly complete. Again, transcribe the title information from the caption title.

> The Love Nest (appendix, p. 120-22)

The cataloger should beware of items that may seem to have a list title page but do not meet the specific criteria or include both title and list title information. For instance, the title page for Faithful Forever ("Original," appendix, p. 89-92) has a list of items (with Faithful Forever starred) and has a complete title/statement of responsibility at the top of the page. Take It from There (appendix, p. 169-74) does not have a list of items for sale at all. Both pages are similar in general appearance to the motion picture and musical excerpts previously described but are actually title pages, since neither lists a "group of related items available for purchase."

AACR2
Series title page. An added title page bearing the series title proper and usually, though not necessarily, other information about the series (e.g., statement of responsibility, numeric designation, data relating to publication, title of the item within the series).

Guidelines:

Series and Set Title Pages

For sheet music, series or set title pages commonly fall into two types. In either case the cataloger must decide if the page meets the definition of "list title page" before selecting the chief source of information for the bibliographic record for the individual musical work. If the series itself is being cataloged (and many libraries catalog both the serial and the individual item), the title statement from series title page is transcribed.

Type 1. The series title is given with little additional information. When creating a bibliographic record for the series, the cataloger would use the series title page. When creating a bibliographic record for the individual title (sometimes called the analytic), the caption or other source should be used.

Series t.p.: Bland's Collection of Catches, Glees, &c., &c. (appendix, p. 68-70)

Series t.p.: The Musical Gift (appendix, p. 123-26), analytic t.p.: Merry Maiden and the Tar

Series t.p.: Overture no. 4 (appendix, p. 142-45)

Type 2. Sometimes the series title page looks like a "list title page," with an arrow, star, or other mark indicating which title was purchased. At least for sheet music, the publishers often use the same series title page for many different musical works, frequently indicating the title with an arrow or other mark (including manuscript checks or numbers, underlining, etc.).

Series/set t.p.: Claude Debussy (Bruyères, appendix, p. 75-80)

Series t.p.: Bromo-Seltzer Edition of 171 Popular Selections (appendix, p. 117-19), analytic title: The Lost Chord

Series/set t.p.: Das Nachtlager in Granada (appendix, p. 127-33), analytic title: Ein Schütz' bin ich.

Series t.p.: Overture no. 4 (appendix, p. 142-45)

AACR2
Caption title. A title given at the beginning of the first page of the text or, in the case of a musical score, immediately above the opening bars of the music.

Guidelines:

The caption title should be selected as the chief source of information in the cases described above as well as when it is the only information provided by the publisher. Most music published in the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries did not have separate title pages. It was only with the availability of cheap paper around 1840-1850 that separate title pages became standard.

Bibo, a Canzonet (appendix, p. 64-67)

The Lass of Richmond Hill (appendix, p. 111-13)

List to Old Bacchus (appendix, p. 114-16)

AACR2
Colophon. A statement at the end of an item giving information about one or more of the following: the title, author(s), publisher, printer, date of publication or printing. It may include other information.

Guidelines:

Note 2.0B1 and the instructions to use the colophon only for oriental publications. More importantly for the application of this rule to sheet music, the Library of Congress Rule Interpretations amplifies the information from AACR2, at least as far as how the Library of Congress will apply the rule.

> For books, a colophon is a statement appearing at the end of the printed matter of a book, i.e., at the foot of the last page or on another leaf at the end of the book. Books with paper covers may carry a colophon on the recto or verso of > the back cover. The colophon gives information about its printing; it may also give the book's author and title. In a few cases the colophon may give information about the publishing of the book instead of, or in addition to, information about printing . . . Confine the application of the AACR2 provisions for colophon information to the kinds of data given above. Do not stretch the concept of a colophon to cover other kinds of data simply because these data are placed in the book more or less in the position of a colophon (e.g., "Index by Mary Frances Kerr Donaldson . . ." or "Prepared by the Research Department, United States League" (both at the foot of the last page of text)). The presence of this or any other information instead of colophon information means that the data do not represent a colophon.[2]

When an item lacks a title page, title and authorship information may be taken from a colophon. It is fairly unusual for sheet music published after 1800 to include a colophon. Most of the information found at the end of the music is not to be considered to be a colophon, according to the rule interpretation given above. In the early nineteenth century, information about the engraver or printer may be found in this position. In the twentieth century, information about the arranger is sometimes found there. In no case should this be treated as a colophon unless it meets the criteria listed in the rule interpretation. If the information printed there is considered important to a library's patrons, it should be given in a note.

A cover is a wrapper made of material different from that used throughout the rest of the publication. Covers may be made of vellum, paper, fabric, plastic, etc. A paper page is a wrapper if any of the following differ from the score itself: color, texture, thickness, or type. Covers may or may not feature elaborate lettering or illustrations. Despite the popular usage of this term among collectors, most sheet music does not have covers but rather decorative or illustrated title pages. Since catalogers of sheet music are very unlikely to encounter a work with a cover, these guidelines do not include any examples.

Other Preliminaries and Sources

Preliminaries. The title page(s) of an item, the verso of the title page(s), any pages preceding the title page(s), and the cover.

Guidelines:

When an item lacks title information because pages are missing or mutilated, the cataloger must provide information about the musical content from any source at hand. This could be manuscript notes on wrappers or boxes, title information given at the bottom of a page, citations in bibliographies, etc. There will be occasions when no information is available and the cataloger will need to describe the item based on whatever knowledge he or she has about the work. The copy of Soldier's Suit of Grey (appendix, p. 155-57) owned by the library includes only the last page of music. There is a manuscript annotation citing the number in the Crandall bibliography. The identification was confirmed by comparison with a complete copy in another library. Works may sometimes be identified through their plate numbers. Expertise in recognizing the type fonts and styles of publishers is helpful. An example of solving such a mystery is an "orphaned" page of music with only the plate number "D. et C. No. 3564." Anton Diabelli (Viennese publisher) frequently used this style for plate numbers and, by checking in the appropriate bibliography by Alexander Weinmann, the work is identified as an excerpt from Haydn's Creation. Unfortunately for musical detectives, except for Weinmann's work on Viennese publishers, there are few bibliographies that can provide such information. A selection of bibliographies for United States imprints is given in the bibliography.

Items with Several Chief Sources of Information

Chapter 5 of AACR2 does not refer to situations where there are multiple sources for the chief source of information for complete compositions. There is one publishing situation in sheet music that does present this problem. In order to satisfy the huge market for live music to be performed during silent movies, publishers issued sheet music with two compositions. The pieces are printed back-to-back, with the titles centered over the music. In selecting the chief source of information the cataloger should observe the provisions of AACR2 1.0H1, and make an appropriate note concerning the sources of the titles proper and how the works are printed relative to each other (Ukulele Lady/Yearning Just for You, appendix, p. 182-84.)

AACR2

1.0H. Items with several chief sources of information

1.0H1. Single part items. Describe an item in one physical part from the first occurring chief source of information or the one that is designated as first, unless one of the following applies.

a) In cataloguing an item comprising different works and with no chief source of information pertaining to the whole item, treat the sources of information for the different works as if they were a single source. Common examples include books containing a number of works with title pages for each (see 1.1G3) and sound discs with a different label on each side. . . .

b) Prefer a chief source of information bearing a later date of publication, distribution, etc.

c) If the chief sources present the item in different aspects (e.g., as an individual item and as part of a multipart item), prefer the source that corresponds to the aspect in which the item is to be treated.

d) For items that contain written, spoken, or sung words for which there are chief sources of information in more than one language or script, prefer (in this order)

i) the source in the language or script of the written, spoken, or sung words if there is only one such language or script or only one predominant language or script

ii) the source in the original language or script of the work if the words are in more than one language or script, unless translation is known to be the purpose of the publication, in which case use the source in the language of the translation

iii) the source in the language or script that occurs first in the following list: English, French, German, Spanish, Latin, any other language using the roman alphabet, Greek, Russian, any other language using the Cyrillic alphabet, Hebrew, any other language using the Hebrew alphabet, any other language.

1.1G3. [Formerly 1.1G2]

Multiple Sources

If there is no single chief source of information for a single part item and it is not possible to say which work is first, second, etc., transcribe them in English alphabetical order.

For materials such as books that normally confine the source for the title and statement of responsibility area to one location within the item, make a note to explain the situation when there is no single chief source for the single part item (e.g., "No collective t.p.; titles transcribed from individual title pages."[3]

Guidelines:

In Ukulele Lady/Yearning Just for You (appendix, p. 182-84) there are two works by different composers and both have words in English. One title is printed on the verso of the other, but there is no clear indication of which is the "main" work. The cataloger should treat the title information from both as the chief source and follow 1.0H1 for the order of the chief sources of information. As instructed by the rule interpretation, the titles and statements of responsibility should be transcribed in alphabetical order.

5.0D. Levels of detail in the description. See 1.0D.

1.0D. Levels of detail in the description. The elements of description provided in the rules in this and in following chapters constitute a maximum set of information. This rule sets out three recommended levels of description each containing those elements that must be given as a minimum by libraries and other cataloguing agencies choosing that level of description. Base the choice of a level of description on the purpose of the catalogue or catalogues for which the entry is constructed. Include this minimum set of elements for all the catalogued at the chosen level when the elements are applicable to the item being described and when, in the case of optional additions, the library has chosen to include an optional element. . . .

Guidelines:

Chapter 3, Levels of Detail, contains the list of mandatory and optional elements of description recommended by these guidelines. The first, or minimal, level of detail differs slightly from those of AACR2 in that both edition and musical presentation statement are mandatory if present on the item. Note that the inclusion of plate or publisher's numbers is also mandatory if present on the item. Whether this information is present in a note or coded (e.g., MARC) field is dependent on the individual library's needs.

AACR2, Rule 1.0D, goes on to define three levels of description by means of schematic illustration. Before choosing one of the three levels in AACR2, the relationship to other national standards for levels of cataloging should be considered:

A) AACR2

Defines three levels of detail in bibliographic description:

A1) First level of description (1.0D1)

A2) Second level of description (1.0D2)

A3) Third level of description (1.0D3)

B) National Level Bibliographic Record (NLBR)[4] defines two levels of USMARC cataloging records, categorizing each USMARC field as mandatory, included if applicable, optional, etc. (including coded leader fields, fixed fields, and variable fields of description and access):

B1) Minimal level bibliographic record

B2) Full level bibliographic record

C) Core bibliographic record of the Cooperative Cataloging Council (CCC)

See also the web pages for the Program for Cooperative Cataloging, Core "Bibliographic Record for Printed and Manuscript Music," http://www.loc.gov/catdir/pcc/coremusmss.html. The information is summarized in chapter 4.

Guidelines: Comments on the AACR2 Levels of Detail for Sheet Music Cataloging

AACR2 first level of detail (A1) and NLBR minimal (B1): AACR2 first level of detail in description (A1) is very similar in content to the USMARC fields for minimal level music records or NLBR minimal level. Catalogers should be cautioned that using these levels may not be enough to distinguish between various editions of sheet music, nor would the NLBR minimal provide access to joint composers, lyricists, first lines, etc. Without clarifying notes (not called for in the NLBR minimal level), even the instrumentation of the item might not be apparent from the title transcription and edition statement. Sufficient information should be provided for AACR2 first level of detail or NLBR minimal records so that editions and musical presentation statements may be distinguished.

AACR2 second level of detail (A2) and core record (C): The AACR2 second level of detail in description is somewhat similar to the proposed core level in its content. The idea of "core bibliographic records" is very appealing because it assures a basic level of record that could be "enhanced" with optional additions, depending upon individual institutional needs. Institution A might create the core record, and Institution B could dynamically enhance with additional notes and added entries. Institution C might have other aspects of sheet music that it wished to bring out by further optional enhancements to the evolving bibliographic record. The enhancements could even go beyond "full" level, drawing upon elements from DCRB, for instance. However, these enhancements would not be required of the institution choosing core level.

AACR2 third level of detail (A3) and NLBR full level (B2): These levels are quite similar and represent the ideal in sheet music cataloging for institutions with the resources and commitment to permit their application.

AACR2
5.1. TITLE AND STATEMENT OF RESPONSIBILITY AREA
5.1B. Title proper

5.1B1. Transcribe the title proper as instructed in 1.1B. If a title consists of the name(s) of one or more type(s) of composition, or one or more type(s) of composition and one or more of the following:

medium of performance key date of composition

treat type of composition, medium of performance, etc., as the title proper. . . .

1.1B1. Transcribe the title proper exactly as to wording, order, and spelling, but not necessarily as to punctuation and capitalization. Give accentuation and other diacritical marks that are present in the chief source of information . . .

An alternative title is part of the title proper (see Glossary . . .). Precede and follow the word or (or its equivalent in another language) introducing an alternative title by a comma. Capitalize the first word of the alternative title. . . .

If the title proper as given in the chief source of information includes the punctuation marks . . . or [ ], replace them by — and ( ), respectively. . . .

If the title proper as given in the chief source of information includes symbols that cannot be reproduced by the facilities available, replace them with a cataloguer's description in square brackets. Make an explanatory note if necessary. . . .

If the title proper is not taken from the chief source of information, give the source of the title in a note (see 1.7B3).

Guidelines:

Bruyères (appendix, p. 75-80)

St. Louis Woman (appendix, p. 158-60)

Tell Her While the Waltz is Playing

The Man on the Flying Trapeze

There's Something about a Soldier (appendix, p. 179-81)

Note that in the Bruyères example, the title proper of the set consists solely of the name of the composer and is transcribed as such. Although AACR2 1.1B3 is not specifically cited in chapter 5, nevertheless the cataloger may need to take such instructions into account when preparing the description.

Examples of type of composition:

March for Piano

Piano Solo, Op. 14, Key of B [flat symbol]

Schottische

5.1B1. [continued] In all other cases, if one or more statements of medium of performance, key, date of composition, and/or number are found in the source of information, treat those elements as other title information (see 5.1E). . . .

Guidelines:

Title transcribed: Norse lullaby : op. 53, no. 3 (appendix, p. 134-37)

AACR2
5.1B1. [continued] In case of doubt, treat statements of medium of performance, key, date of composition, and number as part of the title proper.
If the title proper is not taken from the chief source of information, give the source of the title in a note (see 5.7B3).

Guidelines:

Caption title.

Further instructions about "name of composition" are given in Music Cataloging Decisions (MCD) 5.1B1 (rev. May 1989):

MCD 5.1B1.
5.1B1. In applying this rule, be governed by the definition of "name of a type of composition" in 25.27A1, footnote 9 [i.e. 10 in the 2003 edition.]
Apply the second sentence of this rule to titles consisting of the names of two or more types of composition only when each of the types named constitutes a more or less distinct part of the work or item. (In such cases the names of types are usually connected by a conjunction or other linking word.)
Zwei Praeludien und Fugen für Orgel, op. posth. 7
Sonatas and partitas for solo violin, BWV 1001-1006
When a title consists of two words each of which alone would be the name of a type of composition, but the combination of the two words produces a distinctive title (cf. LCRI 25.27A), apply the third sentence of this rule ("In all other cases . . .").
Fantaisie-impromptu : in C sharp minor, op. 66
Humoresque-bagatelles : op. 11
Note, however, that "trio sonata" (cf. 25.29C1) and "chorale prelude" are each the name of one type of composition.

AACR2
25.27A1.
[footnote] 10. The name of a type of composition, as distinguished from a distinctive title, is considered to be the name of a form, the name of a genre, or a generic term used frequently by different composers (e.g., capriccio, concerto, intermezzo, Magnificat, mass, movement, muziek, nocturne, requiem, Stück, symphony, suite, Te Deum, trio sonata). Other titles (including those that consist of such terms plus an additional word or words, e.g., chamber concerto, Konzertstück, little suite) are considered to be distinctive.

Guidelines: Special Problems in Interpreting Sheet Music Title Pages

Determining the Title Proper vs. Other Title Information for Sheet Music

The title of a piece of sheet music often is comprised of two phrases or data elements, making the title portion of the transcription problematical and a source of confusion as to which phrase to transcribe as the title proper and which as the other title or "at head of title" information. If the division between the title proper and the other title information is unclear (cf. AACR2, 5.2B1) decisions must be made on a case-by-case basis, guided by placement upon the title page, typographical devices, and prominence of the various title elements on the title page and caption. If there is still ambiguity, assigning the title proper may ultimately depend upon the form traditionally used to refer to the song or musical piece in speech or in reference sources.

Data elements on the title page may be compared to data elements in the caption when deciding upon the title proper versus other title information. If, for example, the title page presents an ambiguous two-phrase title, but in the caption, the title combines the two elements on one line without separation, including both phrases in the title proper is justified.

On title page:

I'm All Butterflies

WHEN I'M WITH YOU

In caption: I'm All Butterflies When I'm With You

Title proper: I'm all butterflies when I'm with you

Added entry (246): When I'm with you

Comparing title page phrases to the first line of text or chorus may also help. Significant text from first line or chorus, particularly a catch phrase—called a "hook" in sheet music parlance—is often added to the title by the publisher to enhance recognition, but may not reflect the title proper. In the following example, while the phrase "The Man in the Shadows of Your Life" might be considered the "true" title, since the first data element ("I'm Just") is grammatically linked to the second, it may not be transposed and should be transcribed as the beginning of the title proper.

On title page:

(I'm Just)

The Man in the Shadows of Your Life

First line of refrain: I'm just the man in the shadows of your life

Title proper: I'm just the man in the shadows of your life

Added entry (246): Man in the shadows of your life

On many sheet music title pages, the title proper may be obscured by the prominence given to illustration, through use of ornamental devices, decorative lettering, or placement stressing design over legibility. In such cases, comparing the caption title with the title page may be useful. The title in the caption, generally straightforward in nature, may resolve discrepancies or divisions of phrases.

When cataloging a piece of music excerpted from a larger work (productions such as musical comedies, operas, revues, etc.), avoid transcribing the title and statement of responsibility elements for the larger work as those for the excerpt from that work. The composer or lyricist for a song in a musical comedy may differ from the composer or lyricist credited with authorship of the musical as a whole. However, often the information for both the excerpt and the larger work are commingled on a title page for sheet music items. The publisher may publish separate songs from a musical, for instance, reusing the same illustrated title page for the musical, overprinted with the title for the song. (The Love Nest, a Song from the Musical Mary, appendix, p. 120-22)

Inseparable Phrases or Data Elements Preceding the Title Proper (Either on the Same Line or "At Head of Title")

Transcribe as part of the title proper any grammatically inseparable phrases preceding the title or at head of title; make a title added entry if the portion of the title proper can stand as a varying form of title:

On title page:

(I'm a) Yankee Doodle Dandy

Title proper: I'm a Yankee doodle dandy

Added entry (246): Yankee doodle dandy

On title page:

(The Letter You Sent Meant)

ALL THE WORLD TO ME

Title proper: The letter you sent meant all the world to me

Added entry (246): All the world to me

Optionally, retain the parentheses in transcribing the title proper for the examples above.

On title page:

Joseph Papp Presents

Selections from

A Chorus Line

Main entry: Hamlisch, Marvin.

Uniform title: Chorus line. Vocal score. Selections

Title proper: Joseph Papp presents selections from A chorus line

Added entry (246): Selections from A chorus line

Added entry (246): Chorus line

The data element may be as brief as a single word. The music is by William Garfield; the related play is by Omar Mellon.

On title page:

Garfield's

ANNA

The Hit Song Sung in the Current Broadway Play

MY SWEET ANNA

by Omar Mellon

Main entry: Garfield, William.

Uniform title: Anna

Title proper: Garfield's Anna

Optional added entry (740): My sweet Anna

Optional name/title added entry (700): Mellon, Omar. My sweet Anna.

Separable "At Head of Title" Phrases or Data Elements (i.e., on a Separate Line above the Title Proper)

Make a note of separable "at head of title" phrases or transpose to other title information position. Make an added entry if considered useful.

On chief source:

Theme From the French Film

Under Paris Skies

Title proper: Under Paris skies

Note: At head of title: Theme from the French film Under Paris skies.

Optional added entry (246): Theme from the French film Under Paris skies

Optional added entry for film (730): Under Paris skies (Motion picture)

On chief source:

Easter Song with Violin Obbligato

BEHOLD THE RISEN KING!

Transcribe as: Behold the risen king! : Easter song with violin obbligato

On chief source:

(You're My Daisy)

You're Driving Me Crazy

Transcribe as: You're my Daisy : you're driving me crazy

Added entry (246): You're driving me crazy

Search parameters for punctuation in titles differ from system to system. Most online catalogs do not index punctuation, making the transcription or omission of parentheses immaterial. AACR2, 1.1B1 states: "Transcribe the title proper exactly as to wording . . . but not necessarily as to punctuation and capitalization."

Separable Phrases or Data Elements in Parentheses, Preceding the Remainder of Title (on the Same Line)

Transcribe the first phrase as title proper; transcribe the second phrase as other title information. Make an added entry for the second phrase.

Printed on one line on the chief source:

(What can You Lose?) Give It a Try!

Transcribe as: What can you lose? : give it a try!

Added entry (246): Give it a try!

Separable Phrases or Data Elements in Parentheses, Following the Title Proper

Transcribe phrases in parentheses following the title proper as other title information; make an added entry for the other title information if it is considered useful for access:

On chief source:

This Must Be Illegal (It's So Nice)

Caption title: This Must Be Illegal

Transcribe as: This must be illegal : it's so nice

Optional added entry (246): It's so nice

In the example above, the cataloger must decide whether to use the short title or "run-on" title for the title proper. Typography and layout must be taken into consideration. See also You Go Your Way, appendix, p. 185-88.

On chief source:

Take Me Out in a Jitney Bus (and Pose as a Millionaire) (appendix, p. 175-78)

Transcribe as: Take me out in a jitney bus : and pose as a millionaire

Optional added entry (246): Pose as a millionaire

On chief source:

Babe Ruth, Babe Ruth (We Know What He Can Do)

Transcribe as: Babe Ruth, Babe Ruth : we know what he can do

Optional added entry (246): We know what he can do

If describing the item as a unit, transcribe the titles of the individually titled works in the order in which they appear in the chief source of information or, if there is no single chief source of information, in the order in which they appear in the item, treating multiple sources of information as if they were one source (see 1.0H).

Separate the titles of the works by semicolons if the works are all by the same person(s) or emanate from the same body (bodies), even if the titles are linked by a connecting word or phrase. Follow the title of each work by its parallel title(s) and other title information.

Guidelines:

According to 1993 amendments, rule 1.1B7 has been deleted in favor of 1.1G3. Also see the LCRI for 1.1G3 quoted previously under 1.0H1 (multiple sources).

Supplied title propers are needed only if the copy in hand lacks title information on the item. Rules 25.25-25.35 are concerned with the construction of uniform titles. Thus, in the case of a supplied title, the cataloger should follow the rules for the construction of a uniform title.

Guidelines:

Title and Other Title Information

Title and other title information for music may include the following: medium of performance, voicing and instrumentation, voice range, key, date of composition. Smiraglia addresses other title information elements thus:

> Transcription of musical titles is dependent on the presence of terms denoting a type of composition. If the title consists of the name of a type of composition (i.e., if it is "generic"), then numbering, key or tonal center, date of composition, and medium of performance may be transcribed as part of the title proper. If the title is not the name of a type of composition (i.e., if it is distinctive) or if it includes a modifier (such as "Symphonie espagnole"), then all such statements are transcribed as other title information.[5]

He goes on to say "Statements in the chief source indicating arrangement or version (such as 'piano score') are statements of responsibility and should be transcribed in area 1 even when no name is associated with them."[6]

> Ouvertüre zur Oper Der Freyschütz / von Carl Maria von Weber ; als Quartett für zwey Violinen, Viole und Violoncello eingerichtet.
> Drey Freyschütz Märsche / von Carl Maria von Weber ; für das Pianoforte auf vier Hände. (appendix, p. 97-99)

Most titles issued as sheet music are distinctive; however, generic titles—such as "March in G" or "Song for high voice in F"—are encountered.

Medium of Performance (Original Voicing and Instrumentation)

Transcribe medium of performance statements as other title information if the title proper is distinctive.

Title transcribed: Behold, God is my salvation : tenor solo, qt. & chorus

Title transcribed: Under Paris skies = Sous le ciel de Paris : piano solo

Title transcribed: Norah the pride of Kildare : piano

Voice Range

Transcribe voice range statements not grammatically linked to other title information in the edition area (cf. 5.2 and MCD 5.2B2).

Edition statement: Mezzo-soprano in D

Medium of Performance Statements Combined with Voicing Statements

If the voice range statement is combined with the medium of performance, transcribe the combined statement in the edition area. In the example below, there is a medium of performance statement at the head of title and a statement of voice range with key at the bottom of the page. They should be combined in the edition statement.

Title transcribed: Behold the risen King! : Easter song with violin obbligato / by Louis R. Dressler.

Edition statement: Low voice, in F.

Chord Symbols and Diagrams

For definitions and examples see the glossary and appendix, Hallelujah (p. 100-103), Faithful Forever (p. 89-96), Please (p. 146-48), St. Louis Woman (p. 158-60), There's Something about a Soldier (p. 179-81).

Make an optional note indicating the presence of chord symbols or diagrams. Do not include it as other title information.

Note: For high voice and piano, with chord symbols.

Note: For voice and piano, with chord diagrams for guitar and ukulele.

Note: For voice and piano, with chord symbols and chord diagrams for guitar and ukulele.

Statements about the Arrangement or Version of the Music

Do not consider statements about the arrangement or version to be other title information; instead, transcribe them as a statement of responsibility (see below).

Thematic Numbering and Opus Numbers

Transcribe thematic catalog numbers and opus numbers as other title information if the title proper is distinctive; if not, include in the title proper (cf. 5.1B1).

Title transcribed: Norse lullaby : op. 53, no. 3 (appendix, p. 134-37)

Title transcribed: The bluebell : op. 9, no. 1 (appendix, p. 71-74)

but,

Title transcribed: Song in D, op. 5, no. 3

Type of Composition (Genre Phrase)

Transcribe type of composition (genre phrase) as other title information if it follows a distinctive title proper (See the Rough Riders example in the appendix, p. 149-51). The phrase may be combined with medium of performance, voicing statements, adjectives, or other information.

comic song

Character's Names Associated with Vocal Parts

Transcribe character's names associated with vocal parts as other title information if the information is in a title position on the chief source. If it is found elsewhere on the item, omit it or make an optional note.

Title transcribed: The love nest : Jack and Mary (appendix, p. 120-22)

Optional note: Sung by the characters Jack and Mary.

Title transcribed: Tell her while the waltz is playing : duet, Mildred and Bartlett

Title transcribed: Te sol quest anima = Believe me : the celebrated terzetto from Attila

Optional note: Sung by the character Odabella.

Other Title Information (in Addition to the Above)

Transcribe other title information as instructed in 1.1E; make an added title entry if considered useful. Compare title page with caption title information in making decisions about assigning a phrase to title proper or other title information.

Title transcribed: Bluebird : why don't you call on me

Optional added entry (246): Why don't you call on me

5.1F. Statements of responsibility
5.1F1. Transcribe statements of responsibility relating to persons or bodies as instructed in 1.1F.
1.1F.
1.1F1. Transcribe statements of responsibility appearing prominently in the item in the form in which they appear there. If a statement of responsibility is taken from a source other than the chief source of information, enclose it in square brackets. . . .
1.1F2. If no statement of responsibility appears prominently in the item, neither construct one nor extract one from the content of the item. Give the relevant information in a note (see 1.7B6).
Do not include in the title and statement of responsibility area statements of responsibility that do not appear prominently in the item. If such a statement is necessary, give it in a note. . . .
1.1F3. If a statement of responsibility precedes the title proper in the chief source of information, transpose it to its required position unless it is an integral part of the title proper . . .
0.8. The word prominently (used in such phrases as prominently named and stated prominently) means that a statement to which it applies must be a formal statement found in one of the prescribed sources of information (see 1.0A) for areas 1 and 2 for the class of material to which the item being catalogued belongs.

Guidelines:

composed by John Parry

music composed . . . by J.B. Woodbury

by Thos. Ryan

Rule 5.1F refers only to 1.1F, but the cataloger should also follow 1.1F2 and 1.1F3 in transcribing statements of responsibility. For a thorough discussion of Library of Congress policy for 1.1F1, see the LCRI 1.1F1, Jan. 5, 1989.

The word "prominently" is generally taken to mean conspicuous or noticeable at once. In cataloging sheet music where the chief source of information is a title page or illustrated title page, consider the caption title page (i.e., the entire page, not just the title portion at the top) and series/list title page to be prominent. If the chief source is a caption, consider a series/list title page to be prominent. In the cases described above (chief source is the title page or the caption title page) transcribe statements of responsibility taken from the colophon as a note. Statements of responsibility (e.g., ukulele arranged by . . .) very rarely appear as part of the colophon. Other names with different or unknown responsibilities frequently are presented in the colophon position. In the nineteenth century it was a common practice for engravers to put their name at the bottom of the last page, i.e., in the position of a colophon.

Since they are not responsible for the intellectual content of the music, their names should not be transcribed in the statement of responsibility area. This information may be transcribed in a note.

A special caution: the authorship statements on the pages including all the production information do not always reflect the true responsibilities for the excerpt. Fairly often songs by other composers were included in productions and their names may be found on the caption but not on the page describing the production.

Composer and Lyricist Statements

written by Albert A. Hill ; music by Chas. D. Blake lyric by Charles LeMair, Charles Derickson ; music by Burton Brown

Arranger, Translator, and Editor (of the Music) Statements

Transcribe arranger, translator, and musical editor statements in the statement of responsibility area.

[words] written by Joe McCarthy and [music] by Jimmie Monaco ; [ukulele arr. by May Singhi Breen]

Note: "Ukulele arr. by May Singhi Breen"--Caption.

The arranger statement appears at the beginning of the music and may be considered to be part of the caption or make a note.

Note: "Ukulele arr. by May Singhi Breen"--P. 1.

Optional added entry (700): Breen, May Singhi.

Optionally, if the statement is not prominent on the item, omit it or make a note. Information taken from outside the chief source may be transcribed in the title area of the record if it is enclosed in square brackets ([ ]) and the source given in a note.

[words] written by Joe McCarthy and [music] by Jimmie Monaco.

Optional note: "Ukulele arr. by May Singhi Breen"--Colophon.

Note: "Ukulele arr. by May Singhi Breen"--P. 1.

Optional added entry (700): Breen, May Singhi.

On item, in colophon: "Piano score by Geo. N. Terry."

Optional note: "Piano score by Geo. N. Terry"--Colophon.

Optional added entry (700): Terry, Geo. N.

Optionally, the title transcription could include the following:

[piano score by Geo. N. Terry]

Note: "Piano score by Geo. N. Terry"--Colophon.

Optional added entry (700): Terry, Geo. N.

AACR2
1.1F14. Transcribe a statement of responsibility even if no person or body is named in that statement. . . .

Guidelines:

Phrases associated with a statement of responsibility should be transcribed as a statement of responsibility.

Title transcribed: The rain in Spain / vocal edition ; lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner ; music by Frederick Loewe.

Note: Originally for voice and orchestra; arr. for voice and piano.

Title transcribed: Three cheers for your Uncle Sam : march song / text by Nixon Waterman ; music by Leo Rich Lewis ; song edition.

Optional note: Also published for: chorus in E [flat] and D [flat]; band in E [flat] and D [flat]; orchestra in E [flat]

The phrases "vocal edition" and "song edition" frequently indicate an arrangement for voice and piano of a work originally for voice(s) and orchestra. Sometimes it is not possible to identify the original orchestration and it can be very difficult to identify the arranger, as it is often someone hired to make hundreds of such items for a publisher. Occasionally however, the arranger becomes famous for other reasons. Johannes Brahms, for instance, made many arrangements for Diabelli at the beginning of his career. In the Favorit Melodien example below, the "eingerichtet für eine Guitare" is transcribed without a name. The arranger is identified through a standard bibliography.

Title transcribed: Favorit Melodien aus dem Original Zaubermärchen, Das Mädchen aus der Feenwelt, oder, Der Bauer als Millionär / Musik von Jos. Drechsler ; eingerichtet für eine Guitare, mit Hinweglassung der Worte.

Note: Arranged by Anton Diabelli. Cf. Weinmann.

5.1F2. Add a word or short phrase to the statement of responsibility if the relationship between the title and the person(s) or body (bodies) named in the statement is not clear. . . .

Guidelines:

On title page (chief source): "by Madden and Morse"

In caption: "words by Edward Madden, music by Theodore F. Morse"

Transcribe statement of responsibility as:

On caption (chief source): Isaiah XII ; N.B. Sprague

Transcribe statement of responsibility as:

[text from] Isaiah XII ; [music by] N.B. Sprague.

Note: Text from Isaiah XII.

If the relationship is unknown, research the names. If no determination can be made, transcribe the statement as given on the item.

Title transcribed: I'm the guy / ravings by Rube Goldberg ; noise by Bert Grant.

Title transcribed: Missouri squabble / squabbled by Leonard Hayton ; squabbed by Ernie Holst & Steve Kretzmer.

Miscellaneous Statements of Responsibility for Functions Other Than Composer, Lyricist, Arranger/Adaptor, Translator, or Musical Editor:

Performers (with or without sound recording or performance/production data): Do not routinely include performer statements in the statement of responsibility. Contrary to sound recordings of contemporary popular music, the performers did not usually make a contribution to the intellectual content of the published work. Cameo photographs of famous performers, along with phrases such as "as sung by," are printed on title pages to help sell more copies of the work. Catalogers should interpret these promotional phrases as "promoted by," rather than as a statement of responsibility. Optionally, make a note (and added entry) for the performer information, either quoted or reworded in some standard form.

Note: "As sung by the California nightingale, Ruth White." (She was Born in Old Virginia, appendix, p. 152-54)

Note: "Performed by Gilmore's Cornet Band, Pawtucket, R.I."

Note: "Featured and recorded by Art Mooney and his orchestra, MGM Record 10207-A."

Note: "Recorded by Alice Stuart and Snake on Fantasy Records."

Note: "As sung by Bing Crosby and Jane Wyman in the Paramount Picture Here comes the groom."

Note: "Sung by Siga. Biscaccianti & Sig. Perelli & Novelli."

Note: "Introduced with great success in Cohan & Harris' presentation of Raymond Hitchcock in The Beauty Shop."

Dedicatees: Do not include dedication statements in the statement of responsibility. Optionally, if separable grammatically and considered important to the cataloging agency, make a note and added entry for dedication statements; otherwise, ignore them. If such phrases are inseparable grammatically, either include them in the statement of responsibility, if considered important, or use ellipses to indicate omission (cf. 1.1F15). Make optional note and the added entry. Added entries may take the form of local subject headings (690).

On title page in grammatically separable phrase:

"Dedicated to the ladies of Baltimore"

Optional note: "Dedicated to the ladies of Baltimore."

Optional added entry (690 or 700): Ladies of Baltimore.

"Dedicated to and sung by Frank Campbell Esq., Phila., Pa."

Optional note: "Dedicated to and sung by Frank Campbell Esq., Phila., Pa."

Optional added entry (690 or 700): Campbell, Frank.

On title page in grammatically linked phrase:

"music composed and respectfully inscribed to Mrs. W. Prince (of Salem) by I.B. Woodbury"

Optional note: "Music composed and respectfully inscribed to Mrs. W. Prince (of Salem) by I.B. Woodbury."

Optional added entry (690 or 700): Prince, W., Mrs.

The phrases that are grammatically linked could be considered to "form part of statements of responsibility" (cf. AACR2, 1.1F15) and thus be transcribed in the statement of responsibility. For eighteenth and early nineteenth-century imprints the full title page statement, including the dedication, may be transcribed, if such is the general policy of the cataloging library.

Illustrators, Printers, Engravers, Names Labeling Cameos or Photographs, and Other Miscellaneous Names

Names attached to cameos or other portraits are frequently the personal or corporate names of performers, the composers, poets, actors, dedicatees, or subjects of the music. Do not include these names in the statement of responsibility. Optionally, make a note.

Optional note: Illustrated t.p. with cameo photograph identified as Agnes Wallace (Merry Maiden and the Tar, appendix, p. 123-26)

Optional added entry (600): Wallace, Agnes — Pictorial works.

Optional note: Illustrated t.p. with cameo photograph identified as Adelaide Randall (Old Fashioned Rocking Chair, appendix, p. 138-41)

Optional added entry (600): Randall, Adelaide — Pictorial works.

Optional note: Authorized by Ripley.

Optional note: New verses written at the suggestion of The National Song Society.

Optional note: Cameo photograph identified as Rose Smith on t.p.

Optional added entry (600): Smith, Rose — Pictorial works.

Stage Music Information

Sheet music issues of a single song or selection from production music often contain information pertaining to the larger work—musical, revue, play, or film—such as names of the author, director, actors, choreographer, costume designer, etc. Do not transcribe such information in the statement of responsibility area. Make notes and added entries as appropriate. This directive cannot always be followed if statements are grammatically linked, such as "Joseph Papp presents Vocal Selections from A Chorus Line." Hallelujah, from Hit the Deck, is a typical example of an excerpt from a musical (appendix, p. 100-103)

On title page: "as introduced and featured by Jan Peerce in Leon Leonidoff's Production at Radio City Music Hall."

Note: As introduced and featured by Jan Peerce at Radio City Music Hall.

Optionally, make an added entry (700) for Peerce as performer.

On title page: "from the motion picture St. Louis woman" (St. Louis Woman, appendix, p. 158-60)

Note: From the motion picture: St. Louis woman.

Optional added entry (730) for the motion picture.

At head of title: "Theme from the French film Under Paris skies".

Note: At head of title: Theme from the French film Under Paris skies.

Optional added entry (730) for the motion picture.

On title page: "Sung by Rudy Vallee in the motion picture Too many blondes."

Note: From the motion picture: Too many blondes.

or alternatively:

Note: Sung by Rudy Vallee in the motion picture Too many blondes.

Optional added entries for Rudy Vallee as performer (700) and for the motion picture (730).

Miscellaneous Information

Miscellaneous information appearing in the chief source for which optional notes may be made, but which should NOT be included in the title and statement of responsibility area include:

Availability in other voicings or voice ranges

Availability in other arrangements or for other instrumentations

Availability as a sound recording

Price

Musical supplement to newspaper information

Printed logos or seals

Stamps, autographs, and marginalia. (See 5.7-5.8 below)

If there is no single chief source of information for a single part item and it is not possible to say which work is first, second, etc., transcribe them in English alphabetical order.
For materials such as books that normally confine the source for the title and statement of responsibility area to one location within the item, make a note to explain the situation when there is no single chief source for the single part item (e.g., "No collective t.p.; titles transcribed from individual title pages."

Guidelines:

Title transcribed: Capt. Stevenson's march [GMD] ; En masse march.

Title transcribed: Ukulele lady / by Gus Kahn & Richard A. Whiting. Yearning just for you / by Benny Davis & Joe Burke. (appendix, p. 182-84)

Note that rule 5.1G1 is applied only when there is no title page that applies to the whole work. Although there is no reference to rule 1.1G3 in this section, the cataloger must take its provisions into account. It was cited previously under 1.0H1 and 5.1B2 as part of the discussion of supplied title proper.

In the example, Ukulele Lady/Yearning Just for You (appendix, p. 182-84), the two works are printed back-to-back. AACR2 1.0H1 instructs the cataloger how to select the chief sources of responsibility and then the transcription of information for the bibliographic record continues according to the rules in 5.1G1. In this case, the titles are transcribed in alphabetical order, since there is no apparent order given by the publisher.

20th ed.

Soprano or tenor

The glossary in AACR2 defines "edition" as "All copies produced from essentially the same type image (whether by direct contact or by photographic or other methods) and issued by the same entity." Smiraglia adds that edition statements are "Quite simply, those statements that refer to the production history of the physical item."[7] He also notes that such statements rarely appear on printed music. Instead, a variety of "edition-like" statements is often found. Some of these statements actually employ the word "edition." However, to qualify as a true statement of edition, at least one of the following three conditions must be met:

1) Self-defining statements as are commonly found on monographs employing such words as "edition," "issue," "version," or their abbreviations, frequently accompanied by a number.

Nelly Bly / written & composed by S.C. Foster. — 20th ed.

2) Statements using forms or abbreviations of the words "revised" and/or "new," separately or in conjunction, as modifiers or with modifiers.

Comin' thro' the rye : the admired Scotch ballad. — New ed.

3) Statements of vocal ranges on songs, song cycles, sets, or collections of songs that are not grammatically linked to the title statement or additional title information.

Sleep well, sweet angel! / by Franz Abt. — Soprano or tenor

Some publishers are believed to have used the term "edition" to mean "printing" or "issue." It is not clear, however, that this is always the case with all publishers. These "quasi-edition" statements are encountered in sheet music cataloging. If the statements fail to meet at least one of the three conditions set forth above, they should not be entered in the Edition Area. Though the information such statements convey is not appropriate in the Edition Area, it is nonetheless important and deserves to be recorded in the cataloging record. Such information should be transcribed in either the musical presentation statement area—if a change in the physical format from the original is involved (see 5.3 below,—or in a note.

Some publishers may use the word "edition" in conjunction with their issue numbers or plate numbers. In such cases, a true statement of edition does not exist. If the numbers appear with words or abbreviations that identify the publisher, however, this information should be transcribed as the publisher's number for music.

Publisher's no.: Blodgett & Bradfords Edition 167.

The Library of Congress 1989 rule interpretation of 5.2B1 is also helpful in distinguishing between edition statements and musical presentation statements.

LCRI
5.2B1. January 5, 1989
Interpretation
Focusing on the concept of "edition" for music publications, note the following points: care must be taken to distinguish between edition statements of the book type, which are found in music publications, and the very common musical presentation statements that should not be taken as edition statements. A musical presentation statement is one that indicates the version, the arrangements, etc., of a work or the form in which a work is presented in the item (i.e., the music format). Unfortunately, these statements frequently include the word "edition." Even so, they should not be regarded as edition statements.
Musical presentation statements go in the statement of responsibility when the music itself is meant: a version of the music, an arrangement of the music, even a transposition of the music. In all these cases, an "author" is responsible for a changing of the original work. In other cases, when the music format is meant (e.g., edition in score format, edition as a set of parts), then the musical presentation statement should be transcribed according to 5.3.

AACR2
5.2B2. In case of doubt about whether a statement is an edition statement, follow the instructions in 1.2B3.
1.2B3. In case of doubt about whether a statement is an edition statement, take the presence of such words as edition, issue, or version (or their equivalents in other languages) as evidence that such a statement is an edition statement, and transcribe it as such. . . .

Guidelines:

Rule 1.2B3 is chiefly intended to guide the cataloging of books. Following it without question when cataloging sheet music will result in errors. As stated above, statements employing words such as edition, issue, or version are common among sheet music items; however, they are rarely true edition statements. Such statements as "Edition Peters no. 255" are actually publisher's numbers, not edition statements. Further research may be required to determine the status of a phrase. "Vocal edition" may mean a statement about the arrangement rather than edition. Music Cataloging Decision 5.2B2 states: "When a song, song cycle, or set or collection of songs bears a statement designating the voice range (as distinguished from a statement of medium of performance) that is not grammatically linked to the title, other title information, etc., transcribe the statement as an edition statement, whether or not it includes the word 'edition' or its equivalent."

Sleep well, sweet angel! : song / by Franz Abt. — Soprano or tenor

Behold the risen King! / by Louis R. Dressler. — Low voice in F

but,

Three songs for high voice / on poems by Poe ; the music composed by Henry Goode.

This area is designed to accommodate statements that describe how a specific format of the work relates to the item being cataloged and also how it may differ from other formats of the same work. Such statements reflect changes in the physical format of the work, not its musical content, and may be stamped or printed on the item or given in a label attached to the item. The statements listed below reflect changes in physical format from the original sheet music issue and are recognized as standard terminology applied to these special issues by the publishers. See the glossary for definitions. For a thorough discussion of this subject, consult Calvin Elliker's "Sheet music special issues: formats and functions."[8]

Information resembling true musical presentation statements is frequently encountered in sheet music cataloging. To qualify for transcription in the musical presentation statement area, however, such information must indicate a difference in physical format and not musical content. Statements indicating arrangements, versions, adaptations, or transpositions are all concerned with musical—not physical—concerns. Such statements should not be transcribed as musical presentation statements but rather as part of the statement of responsibility. This case is illustrated by the following examples.

I have no mother now : ballad / by Fred Miller ; piano.

This song exists in two forms, one with accompaniment for piano and a second with accompaniment for guitar. The item in hand is the piano accompaniment version. As the statement "piano" relates concerns of musical content, not physical format, it is included in the statement of responsibility, rather than the musical presentation statement. The following is an arrangement and does not involve a change in physical format.

I wish I was in Dixie's land / written and composed expressly for Bryant's Minstrels by Dan D. Emmett ; arranged for the pianoforte by W.L. Hobbs.

AACR2
5.3B1. [continued] If the statement appears in two or more languages or scripts, transcribe the one that is in the language or script of the title proper. If this criterion does not apply, transcribe the one that appears first.
Optionally, transcribe the parallel statements, each preceded by an equals sign. . . .
In case of doubt about whether a statement is a musical presentation statement (as, for example, when it is associated with a statement of responsibility), do not treat it as one. . . .
5.3B2. If a musical presentation statement is an inseparable part of another area and is recorded as such, do not repeat it here.

Guidelines:

Frequently items are encountered that exhibit changes in physical format but lack statements to distinguish them. Often these items are professional copies or "war editions." The Working Group recommends consulting both the list of sheet music musical presentation statements given above and the definitions of these terms in the glossary. If the item qualifies as one of these special issues, supply the appropriate term in the musical presentation statement, and place it within square brackets.

5.4. PUBLICATION, DISTRIBUTION, ETC., AREA
5.4B. General rule
5.4B1. Record information about the place, name, and date of all types of publishing, distributing, etc., activities as instructed in 1.4B.
1.4B1. In this area, record information about the place, name, and date of all types of publishing, distributing, releasing, and issuing activities. . . .
1.4B2. Record information relating to the manufacture of the item in this area.
1.4B3. When more than one place, name, or date is recorded in this area, give them in the order that is appropriate to the item being described.
1.4B4. Give names of places, persons, or bodies as they appear, omitting accompanying prepositions unless case endings would be affected. Use abbreviations as instructed in appendix B. . . .
1.4B5. If the original publication details are covered by a label containing publication details relating to a reproduction, reissue, etc., give the publication details of the later publication in this area. Give the publication details of the original in a note (see 1.7B9) if they can be ascertained readily.

1.4B6. If an item is known to have fictitious publication, distribution, etc., details, give them in the conventional order. Supply the real publication, distribution, etc., details as a correction if they are known. . . .

Guidelines:

Sheet music often contains confusing information about printing and publication. Frequently, several places of publication will be listed, and the principal location may not always appear prominently. Names of additional publishers or distributors may be given in stamps or labels, further obscuring information about an item's origins.

Relationships among publishers and distributors are often problematical. Imprints from the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries often present various names. Frequently even the publisher's name given in the plate number is contradicted by other information, as the following examples from Wolfe illustrate:

Wolfe 949: Bonaparte's grand march. New York, Sold at J. Paff's music store, [1811 or 1812]

Wolfe 949A: Bonaparte's grand march. New York, Sold at W. Dubois's music store.

Wolfe 949A is a reissue of Paff's plates with the imprint altered. Dubois acquired Paff's stock in 1817 and reissued many items, particularly from 1836 to 1840.

Imprint would be: New York, Dubois's Music Store, [1817 or 1818]

Some nineteenth-century title pages present distributors as if they were publishers. For instance, pre-Civil War items issued by Benteen of Baltimore and W. T. Mayo of New Orleans give both firms equal prominence on their title pages. Mayo, however, never owned any plates and functioned purely as a distributor of Benteen's publications. Phrases such as "Published by," "Sold by," or "Printed by" may sometimes reflect conditions for earlier imprints and not the item in hand. After 1850 phrases such as "Exclusively sold by," "Distributed by," and "Sole selling agent" appear frequently and generally identify the distributor, rather than the publisher. Publishers' or distributors' trademarks may appear instead of firms' names. In such cases, the names should be supplied if possible. In items connected to musical productions, such as films or musicals, it may be particularly difficult to distinguish among publishers and production companies. If it is not clear whether a firm is publisher or distributor, treat both as publishers. For example, Baltimore : Benteen ; New Orleans : W.T. Mayo, [185-]

5.4C. Place of publication, distribution, etc.
5.4C1. Give the place of publication, distribution, etc. as instructed in 1.4C.
1.4C1. Transcribe a place of publication, etc., in the form and the grammatical case in which it appears. . . .
1.4C2. Supply another form of the name of a place if such an addition is considered desirable as an aid to identifying the place, using the English form of name if there is one. . . .
1.4C3. If the name of the country, state, province, etc., appears in the source of information, transcribe it after the name of the place if it is considered necessary for identification, or if it is considered necessary to distinguish the place from others of the same name. Supply the name of the country, state, province, etc., if it does not appear in the source of information but is considered necessary for identification or distinction, using the English form of name if there is one. . . .

Guidelines:

The rules are fairly straightforward; however, difficulty may be encountered with 1.4C5:

AACR2
1.4C5. If two or more places in which a publisher, distributor, etc. has offices are named in the item, give the first named place. Give any subsequently named place that is given prominence by the layout or typography of the source of information. LCRI
1.4C7. January 5, 1989.
Give the address of a publisher, distributor, etc., following the name of the place of publication, distribution, etc., only for a monograph cataloged according to chapter 2 or chapter 5 that meets these three conditions:
1) it was issued by a U.S. publisher, distributor, etc., whose address is given in the item being cataloged;
2) it was issued in the current three years;
3) it does not bear an ISBN or ISSN.
Do not apply 1.4C7 if two or more publishers, distributors, etc., are being recorded in the publication, distribution, etc., area. Exception: If one of the entities is a U.S. distributor for a monograph published outside the U.S., give the address of the U.S. distributor if the item meets these four conditions:
1) the U.S. distributor is the only entity being recorded with the distributor's place of publication;
2) the U.S. distributor's address is given in the item;
3) the item was issued in the current three years;
4) the item lacks an ISBN or ISSN.
Apply 1.4C7 also to items in which the name of the publisher, distributor, etc., is unknown and the name of the U.S. manufacturer is being given in the publication, distribution, etc., area (1.4G1) if the monograph meets these three conditions:
1) the manufacturer's address is given in the item;
2) the item was issued in the current three years;
3) the item lacks an ISBN or ISSN.
When applying 1.4C7, routinely repeat the name of the city in the address. For street addresses, abbreviate such words as "street," "avenue," "place" according to normal usage. Omit unnecessary elements from the address (e.g., the name of the building when the street address or post office box is given). Do not bracket any of the elements given in the address.

Guidelines:

For pre-twentieth century imprints, the address of the publisher is often the only clue to the date of publication. The rule interpretation notwithstanding, the optional addition is strongly recommended for United States imprints published up to 1825. While this is optional for all materials, catalogers are encouraged to include it if the date of publication has been inferred from the publisher's address. Reference books that give approximate dates of publishers based on addresses and plate numbers should be consulted; for example, Dichter and Shapiro, Wolfe, works by Alexander Weinmann, etc.

Addresses may be given, however, if they aid in identifying or dating the publication. Insignificant information in the middle or at the end of the publisher statement may be omitted. Indicate all omissions by the mark of omission. . . .

Guidelines:

For works printed before 1801 follow the principles outlined in DCRB 4C2 and give the complete publisher statement. This may aid in the identification of edition/printing and the assignment of a date of publication.

Guidelines:

N[ew] Y[ork] C[ity] : Radio City Music Hall ; T.B. Harms, sole selling agent

In this example, T. B. Harms is actually the selling agent, though the format of the title page gives this name more prominence than the publisher's. The copyright statement on page 2 indicates their relationship, which can be clarified by including the production information either as part of the description of the title page or as a note.

1.4D4. If an item has two or more publishers, distributors, etc., describe it in terms of the first named and the corresponding place(s). In the following cases, add subsequently named publishers, distributors, etc. and their corresponding places (if they are different from the place(s) already named):
a) when the first and subsequently named entities are linked in a single statement . . .
b) when the first named entity is a distributor, releasing agency, etc., and a publisher is named subsequently
c) when a subsequently named entity is clearly distinguished as the principal publisher, distributor, etc., by layout or typography . . .

d) when the subsequently named publisher, distributor, etc., is in the home country of the cataloguing agency and the first named publisher, distributor, etc., is not. . . .
Follow this rule for multipart items (see 1.0H2) when the publisher, etc., or the name of the publisher, etc., changes in the course of publication.
1.4D5. Optionally, give the name and, when appropriate, the place of a distributor when the first named entity is a publisher. . . .
1.4D6. If the name of the publisher, distributor, etc. is unknown, give s.n. (sine nomine) or its equivalent in a non-roman script. . . .

Guidelines:

If the item lacks a title page or title page substitute, the imprint should be based on any information in the item, including initials or publisher's name in the plate number or publisher's number. Make a note of the source of information. Prefer this to "s.n.". The "first page of music" is the last prescribed source of information for imprint and would be the likely source of plate number information; however, by extending the prescribed sources to anywhere in the item, a publisher or plate number occurring later in the item than the first page of music could be used. The supplied data should be enclosed in square brackets.

5.4G. Place of printing, name of printer, date of printing

5.4G1. If the name of the publisher is unknown and the place and name of the printer are found in the item, give that place and name as instructed in 1.4G . . .

1.4G1. If the name of the publisher is unknown and the place and name of the manufacturer are found in the item, give the place and name of the manufacturer . . .

5.4G2. Optional addition. Give the place, name of printer, and/or date of printing if they are found in the item and differ from the place, name of publisher, etc., and date of publication, etc., and are considered important by the cataloguing agency . . . .

Guidelines:

Music printed before the enactment of the U.S. copyright law in 1871 may bear copyright-like or deposit statements. For the purposes of the date of publication area, treat these as if they are copyright statements. For items without a date of publication, bibliographic resources such as Wolfe, Weinmann, etc. may prove valuable in supplying a date. Twentieth-century sheet music often poses problems in selecting the appropriate date of publication based on the date of copyright. Frequently two or three copyright statements appear in the item—the original copyright date, a renewal date, and perhaps a third date when the copyright was transferred to a different publisher. This problem may be exacerbated by the fact that none of the copyright dates may represent the date of publication. Phrases such as "Assigned to," "Publication rights assigned," "This arrangement copyright [date]," "Copyright renewed" can be helpful in determining an approximate date of publication, but they must be interpreted within the context of the item in hand. An effort should be made to determine which copyright date corresponds to the publication in hand, but this may not be possible without a additional investigation. A good general policy is to accept the latest date of copyright that is not a renewal or reassignment of rights. Optionally, make a note about additional dates.

> Blue bird of happiness / words by Edward Heyman ; additional words by Harry Parr Davies ; music by Sandor Harmati. New York : Radio City Music Hall, : T.B. Harms, c1940.
> Optional note: Additional copyright date: 1934.

In this example, the relationship between Radio City Music Hall and T. B. Harms is unclear. The only title page available is the caption, so all information must be taken from the second page, which simply lists the names of the publishers and distributors without distinguishing functions, and includes two copyright dates. If the relationships among publisher, distributor, and dates cannot be ascertained, include all. Transcribe the latest copyright date as the date of publication and optionally make a note.

5.5. PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION AREA
5.5B. Extent of item (including specific material designation)
5.5B1. Record the number of physical units of an item by giving the number of scores or parts in Arabic numerals and one of the following terms as appropriate:

score
condensed score close score
miniature score
[footnote] Use for scores reduced in size and not intended primarily for performance.
piano [violin, etc.] conductor part vocal score
piano score chorus score part

1 score
1 vocal score
4 parts

For special types of music, use an appropriate specific term (e.g., choir book, table book). . . .
If none of the terms above is appropriate, use v. of music, p. of music or leaves of music. If a general material designation (see 1.1C1) is used, optionally omit of music. . . .

Guidelines:

Generally, sheet music can be described with one of the following terms from the above list (consult the glossary for definitions):

score

chorus score

close score

vocal score

part

Music Cataloging Decisions 5.5B1 prescribes: Do not use "sheet" in describing music. Describe leaves printed on one side only in terms of leaves, whether they are bound, folded, or separate.

AACR2
5.5B2. Give the number of scores and/or parts issued by the publisher.
1 score and part
Note: Part printed on p. 5 of the score

Guidelines:

1 score and part (3 p.) ; 40 cm.

[2] leaves of music and part ; 42 cm.

3 parts ; 35 cm.

In the conventions of printing art music, a score and parts are not generally printed on the same page; however, some sheet music imprints—especially items printed before 1801—are exceptions.

AACR2
5.5B2. [continued] If the item consists of different types of score, or score and parts separately, or different types of score and parts, give the details of each in the order of the list in 5.5B1, separated from each other by a space, plus sign, space. Add the pagination or number of volumes as instructed in 2.5B. . . .

Single volumes
2.5B1. Give the number of pages or leaves in a publication in accordance with the terminology suggested by the volume. That is, describe a volume with leaves printed on both sides in terms of pages; describe a volume with leaves printed on only one side in terms of leaves; . . .
2.5B2. Give the number of pages, leaves, or columns in terms of the numbered or lettered sequences in the volume. Give the last numbered page, leaf, or column in each sequence [footnote] and follow it with the appropriate term or abbreviation. . . .

[footnote] A sequence of pages or leaves is: (1) a separately numbered group of pages, leaves, etc.; (2) an unnumbered group of pages, etc., that stands apart from other groups in the publication; or (3) a number of pages or leaves of plates distributed throughout the publication.

Guidelines:

If there is one part on a separate page, give the pagination of the part.

1 score (20 p.) + 1 part (3 p.) ; 28 cm.

1 score (5 p.) + 1 part ([1] leaf)

1 score (2 v.) + 1 part (2 v.) ; 34 cm.

Sheet music frequently presents a score for voice and piano with "additional chorus." The following are typical examples:

A setting for one voice and piano that changes to SATB where the words, "chorus" or "refrain" appear.

1 score (6 p.)

Note: For voice, chorus (SATB) and piano.

A complete setting for one voice and piano that is followed by a portion arranged for chorus.

1 score (6 p.)

Note: For voice and piano; with additional version of the refrain for chorus (SATB).

A complete setting for one voice and piano, followed by another complete setting arranged for different performing forces, such as a cappella chorus or solo guitar.

2 scores (10 p.)

Note: For voice and piano (1st score); for unacc. chorus (SATB) (2nd score).

8 p. of music

Note: For voice and piano (1st version); for solo guitar (2nd version).

Only the most general parts of 2.5B were included above. Other situations may occur that require the use of additional rules from 2.5B.

AACR2
Publications in more than one volume
2.5B16. Give the number of volumes of a printed monograph in more than one physical volume. . . .

Guidelines:

1 score (2 v.)

2 v. of music

To say that sheet music can occur in sets may seem to be a contradiction of terms since, by definition, sheet music has a limited number of pages. Some kinds of sets are fairly common, however. Songs are often issued in sets that have a single opus number. This is true whether or not the set forms a song cycle (e.g., Five Songs, op. 76 by Dudley Buck, Storm and Sunshine, appendix, p. 161-65). Excerpts from operas were also frequently issued as sets and occasionally present complications with volume numbering. The publisher may have issued more than one version of some volumes, i.e., in different keys or voice ranges. In the following example (selections from a vocal score of L'Africaine) the extent is:

1 vocal score (38 v.)

There are actually only twenty-three numbered volumes, but several are marked "bis" or "ter" (21bis and 21ter). The overture is not numbered and therefore not included in the numbered set.

A more straightforward example may be seen in Das Nachtlager in Granada (appendix, p. 127-33):

1 vocal score (14 v.)

Whether an individual title is analyzed or not depends on local cataloging policy. For more information see AACR2 chapter 13, Analysis. To illustrate the relationship between set and analytic in the context of sheet music, the Five Songs by Dudley Buck example below presents four options for cataloging (Storm and Sunshine, appendix, p. 161-65) for a reproduction and more complete cataloging information).

1) As a Set, without Analytics:

Title: Five songs for contralto or baritone op. 76 / by Dudley Buck.

Extent: 1 score (5 v.) ; 33 cm.

Contents: 1. Morning-land — 2. Spring song — 3. Expectancy — 4. Sunset — 5. Storm and sunshine.

2) As a Set with Analytics, with the Title of the Set Transcribed as a Series Statement

Set title: Five songs for contralto or baritone op. 76 / by Dudley Buck.

Extent: 1 score (5 v.) ; 33 cm.

Analytic title: Storm and sunshine : op. 76, no. 5 / words by Margaret Eytinge ; music by Dudley Buck.

Extent: 1 score (5 p.) ; 33 cm.

Series: Five songs for contralto or baritone op. 76 / by Dudley Buck ; no. 5

Note: Caption title.

3) As a Single Title with the Title of the Set Transcribed as a Series

Title: Storm and sunshine : op. 76, no. 5 / words by Margaret Eytinge ; music by Dudley Buck.

Extent: 1 score (5 p.) ; 33 cm.

Series: Five songs for contralto or baritone op. 76 / by Dudley Buck ; no. 5

Note: Caption title.

4) As a Single Title with the Title of the Set Accommodated by the Uniform Title

Main entry: Buck, Dudley.

Uniform title: Songs, op. 76. Storm and sunshine

Title: Storm and sunshine : op. 76, no. 5 / words by Margaret Eytinge ; music by Dudley Buck.

Extent: 1 score (5 p.) ; 33 cm.

Note: Caption title.

DCRB
5B5. Advertisements
For pages containing only advertisements, make a concise mention of them in the statement of extent when they clearly belong to the publication. This is the case when they:
are included in the pagination;
or are printed on the pages of an initial or final gathering;
or are printed on a separate gathering issued within a publisher's binding; or are known to be present in other copies.
If it is not possible to mention the advertisements concisely in the statement of extent, account for them in a note. . . .

Guidelines:

Advertisements may be noted for the third level of description. The product(s) mentioned or publications listed may be important clues for the dating of the publication. It is usually not possible to mention the advertisements concisely in the statement of extent of sheet music. Using a note field lends more flexibility to the description of the content of the advertisements. For example, sheet music publishers frequently included excerpts from their catalogs:

Title: Bland's collection of catches, glees, &c., &c. (appendix, p. 68-70)

Extent: 1 score (5 v.) ; 40 cm. fol.

Note: Publisher's catalog on last page of v. 2.

Title: The merry maiden and the tar (appendix, p. 123-26)

Extent: 1 vocal score (5, [2] p.) ; 34 cm.

Note: Advertisements by Providence merchants on p. [6]-[7].

(Because p. 6 and 7 are mentioned in the note, they must appear as part of the collation.)

Title: The lass of Richmond Hill (appendix, p. 111-13)

Extent: 1 score (4 p.) ; 39 cm.

Note: Advertisement for 6 works published by Preston following imprint.

DCRB
5B6. Multiple sequences of numbering
. . . When a volume has a pagination of its own and also bears the pagination of a larger publication of which it is a part, give the paging of the individual volume in this area and the continuous paging in a note. . . .

Guidelines:

Title: Ein Schütz' bin Ich (Das Nachtlager in Granada, appendix, p. 127-33)

Extent: 1 vocal score (5 p.) ; 25 x 33 cm.

Note: Pages also numbered 36-39.

Or, for a piece of piano music:

Extent: 5 p. of music, [1] p.

Note: Title page verso and p. [6] are blank.

DCRB
5B12. Incomplete publications
When a volume or an individual sequence of pages or leaves within a volume lacks pages or leaves at its end . . . and the paging or foliation of a complete copy cannot be ascertained, give the number of the last numbered or unnumbered page or leaf followed by "+ p". or "+ leaves". Make a note of the imperfection. . . .

Guidelines:

Extent: 1 score (3+ p.)

Note: Library's copy imperfect: all after p. 3 wanting.

N.B. In a tagged record, the note should end with the NUC symbol for the library in a subfield 5. E.g., Note: Library's copy imperfect: all after p. 3 wanting. $5 NcD

Extent: 1 score ([2+], 5, [1] p.)

Note: Library's copy imperfect: one or more prelim. p. (incl. t.p.) wanting.

8 p. of music (braille)

AACR2
5.5B3. [continued] Optionally, if general material designations are used (see 1.1C1) and the general material designation indicates the tactile nature of the item, omit the addition.
If the item is in large print intended for use by the visually impaired, add (large print) to the appropriate term. . . .

Guidelines:

1 score (3 p., large print)

AACR2
5.5B3. [continued] Optionally, if a general material designation (see 1.1C1) including large print is used, omit this addition.

Guidelines:

For third level cataloging, optionally enhance the extent of item, based on the instructions in DCRB.

DCRB
Publications in one physical unit
5B1. General
Give the complete number of leaves, pages, or columns in accordance with the terminology suggested by the volume . . . itself. Describe a volume with leaves numbered on both sides, or leaves unnumbered and printed on both sides, in terms of pages. Describe a volume with leaves numbered on one side only, or with leaves unnumbered and printed on one side only, in terms of leaves. When the leaves of a pre-1801 volume are numbered and printed on one side only, state this fact in a note. . . . When a publication contains sequences of leaves and pages . . . record each sequence in its appropriate terms.

Giving the "complete number" as stated above means giving the number on the last numbered page or leaf of each numbered sequence as the basic statement of extent, with any necessary additions according to succeeding rules, e.g., 5B3, for the addition of unnumbered pages or leaves. Give Arabic and roman numerals as they appear in the publication. Give roman numerals uppercase or lowercase as they appear. . . .

5B7. Expansions or corrections

When it is desired to give more precise information about pagination or foliation, blank pages or leaves, or other aspects of collation, either expand the extent statement (if this can be done succinctly) by adding information within parentheses after the statement of extent or use the note area . . .

Guidelines:

Example of treatment of blank pages. In this case, the title page is the first page (without a page number), the music is printed on pages 2-5, and the last page is blank. For a work for piano:

5 p. of music, [1] p.

Note: Page [6] is blank.

For a score:

1 score (5, [1] p.)

Note: Page [6] is blank.

Extent: 5 p. of music ; 33 cm.

Note: Lithograph of Abraham Lincoln by Major & Knapp on t.p.

Optional: Subject added entry for Abraham Lincoln.

Optional: Name added entry for Major & Knapp.

5.5D. Dimensions

5.5D1. Give the dimensions of the item as instructed in 2.5D. If the item consists of score(s) and part(s), give the dimensions after all the details of the score(s) and part(s). If the dimensions of the score(s) and part(s) differ, give the dimensions of each after the details to which they apply. . . .

2.5D1. Give the height of the item in centimetres, to the next whole centimetre up (e.g., if an item measures 17.2 centimetres, give 18 cm.). Measure the height of the binding if the volume is bound. Otherwise, measure the height of the item itself. If the item measures less than 10 centimetres, give the height in millimetres.

Guidelines:

Trimmed copies: If the sheet music has clearly been trimmed, give, as the height, the largest size in the collection and make a note.

Extent: 1 score (5 p.) ; 32 cm.

Note: Library's c. 3 imperfect: trimmed to 27 cm.

If the library has only the trimmed copy, give its height and make a note.

Extent: 1 score (5 p.) ; 27 cm.

Note: Library's copy imperfect: trimmed to 27 cm.

or,

Note: Library's copy has been trimmed.

Imprint: [England? : s.n., 18--?]

Extent: 7 p. of music ; 30 cm. + 1 part (3 p.) ; 27 cm.

Note: Library's copy has been trimmed, with loss of imprint information.

AACR2
2.5D2. If the width of the volume is either less than half the height or greater than the height, give the height x width. . . .

Guidelines:

1 score (6 p.) ; 20 x 32 cm.

AACR2
2.5D3. If the volumes in a multipart item differ in size, give the smallest or smaller and the largest or larger size, separated by a hyphen. . . .

Guidelines:

1 score (2 v.) ; 24-28 cm.

AACR2
2.5D4. Give the height and the width of a single sheet. If such a sheet is designed to be folded when issued, add the dimensions of the sheet when folded. . . .

Guidelines:

1 score ([1] p.) ; 48 x 30 cm. folded to 24 x 15 cm.

[1] p. of music ; 48 x 30 cm. folded to 24 x 15 cm.

Each of the examples above is for a single sheet printed on one side and unnumbered. The first is for more than one instrumental or vocal part, the second is for solo instrument or voice. The term "sheet" is not used to describe music (see 5.5B1 in these Guidelines).

AACR2
2.5D5. If the item consists of separate physical units of varying height bound together, give the height of the bind ing only.

Guidelines:

This condition occurs in "binder's collections," where a previous owner has had separately issued items bound together—sometimes according to chronology, instrumentation, a theme, or a particular composer, but commonly in no readily apparent order. Binding generally meant trimming all items to a uniform height, thus individual size may not vary, and some printing may be damaged or lost. Single items once bound into collections but now disbound are frequently encountered and should be examined for such damage or loss.

1 v. of music ; 36 cm.

Local note: A collection of 26 publications bound together.

DCRB
5D. Size and format
5D1. . . . For publications issued before 1801, add the bibliographical format of the publication in parentheses following the size statement whenever the format can be determined. If desired, give the format also for later publications. Give the format in abbreviated form (fol., 4to, 8vo, 12mo, etc.; use 1 for volumes made up of unfolded sheets). . . .

Guidelines:

Format should not routinely be given for sheet music. Format, in the strictest sense of the definition, applies to works printed from movable type. Since most music issued before 1801 was engraved, rather than typeset, the format information adds little useful information to the description. In unusual cases, or if an institution chooses to add format information, the description in DCRB 5D1 should be used as a guide. In most instances, sheet music is folio.

To determine the format of the item, see the descriptions in Gaskell or Bowers.

1 score (3 p.) ; 33 cm. (fol.)

AACR2
5.5E. Accompanying material
5.5E1. Give the details of accompanying material as instructed in 1.5E. . . .

Guidelines:

Parts are not considered accompanying material but integral to the item. Items are frequently "laid in" sheet music (advertisements, newspaper clippings, letters from donors, programs from premieres, etc.). These should not be treated as accompanying material but should be described in a local note or cataloged separately.

Local note: Newspaper clipping about the composer laid in.

Serial. A continuing resource issued in a succession of discrete parts, usually bearing numbering, that has no predetermined conclusion.

Guidelines:

Do not treat phrases such as "Edition Peters Nr. 3111" as series information. Transcribe them in the note area as publisher's numbers.[9] Sheet music presents difficulties in determining whether phrases are true series titles, phrases associated with a publisher's number, or descriptions of a group of publications issued by a particular publisher around a unifying theme.

Clearly discernible publisher's series include the name of the publisher:

Arthur P. Schmidt's octavo edition

Atwill's collection of national songs of America

Bromo-Seltzer edition of 171 popular selections (The Lost Chord, appendix, p. 117-19)

Oliver Ditson Company's sacred selections

Wessel & Cos. Series of modern bass songs (List to Old Bacchus! Counsel Divine, appendix, p. 114-16)

Whitmarsh & Crow's (The Boston Store) popular music

Other publisher's series are more difficult to identify:

Title: Faithful Forever (appendix, p. 93-96)

Musical presentation statement: Professional Edition

Publisher: Famous Music

Series: Famous compositions

Title: Please (appendix, p. 146-48)

Publisher: Famous Music

Series: Famous standard publications

Series: Laurel octavo

Some series are published around a unifying theme:

Easy teaching pieces

Some phrases might be either advertising information or series titles, depending on the cataloger's discretion:

Latest and most popular marches

Latest compositions for piano

Series or sets statements may consist of the composer's name and a genre or medium of performance. Local policy will determine if they should be traced:

Claude Debussy / transcriptions pour violon et piano par Lucien Garban (Bruyères, appendix, p. 75-80)

L. Denza's vocal compositions

There are sheet music series that were issued weekly. These may be treated as series and can be traced, depending on local policy:

Boston weekly journal of sheet music

Sheet music was sometimes issued as supplements to newspapers, particularly to Sunday editions. Generally these supplements give the date and/or volume of the issue of the paper but are otherwise unnumbered. If the item is unnumbered, follow the LCRI 1.6H: "Do not treat an unnumbered supplement as a series, but give the statement as a quoted note if it is not recorded in the title and statement of responsibility area and make an added entry for the serial itself on the bibliographic record for the analyzable title."

Title: She was born in old Virginia (appendix, p. 152-54)

Note: "Music supplement of the New York Journal Advertiser, June 11, 1899."

Title: Strolling with your summer girl (appendix, p. 166-68)

Note: "Music section New York American and Journal, Sunday, June 24 1906, pages 3-8."

Many libraries distinguish between serial publications (which are intended to continue indefinitely) from sets, which have a predetermined number of volumes or are otherwise of a finite duration. Examples of sets include the collected works of composers, as there are a finite number of works to publish). From the practical standpoint of transcription, series, serieslike phrases, and sets should be treated the same way.

Set: Five songs for contralto or baritone : op. 76 / by Dudley Buck. (Storm and Sunshine, appendix, p. 161-65)

Set: Claude Debussy / transcriptions pour violon et piano par Lucien Garban. (Bruyères, appendix, p. 75-80)

Series: Bland's collection of catches, glees, &c., &c. (appendix, p. 68-70)

Series: Overture no. 4 of a selection from the most eminent authors : for the piano forte with a violin or flute accompt. ad libitum (appendix, p. 142-45)

AACR2
1.6A2. Sources of information. Take information recorded in this area from the chief source of information or from any other source prescribed for this area in the following chapters. Enclose any information supplied from other sources in square brackets, within the parentheses enclosing each series statement.

Guidelines:

Title: The lost chord (appendix, p. 117-19)

Series: Bromo-Seltzer edition of 171 popular selections

Title: Die Schöpfung . . . für das Pianoforte allein

Series: [Helios ; no. 4]

Note: Title and series statement from A. Weinmann.

Title: Overture no. 4 of a selection from the most eminent authors : for the piano forte with a violin or flute accompt. ad libitum (appendix, p. 142-45)

Note: Vol. number supplied in manuscript.

The series title is often found on the "list" title page. In fact, one of the most confusing practices of sheet music publishers is to use the same series title page for many titles. The list of available titles may vary greatly (the Bromo Seltzer series above is one example). On the other hand, not all "list" title pages are for series. In the Love Nest (appendix, p. 120-22), the titles appearing in the "list" are all excerpts from the musical comedy, Mary. The relationship of the Love Nest (or any of the other titles listed) to the parent work, Mary, is handled by using a uniform title, rather than treating "Mary" as a series.

If the series title page is lacking, a clue that an item is part of a series may be found in the caption or at the bottom of the first page of music. Not all of the phrases that appear at the bottom of the first page are series statements, however. Especially for United States publications from the late nineteenth to mid-twentieth centuries, the "hook" (a brief title used for ordering and stocking) appears there.

Caption: Meyerbeer's L'Africaine, no. 21

At the bottom of the page: Le Papillon

Engraved plates of music were retained for years and reprinted as desired. Thus the same items were sometimes issued as parts of various series or by different publishers. Plates that had been sold were not always corrected to reflect new publication information. In some cases the serial numbering appears but not the series title. If the title can be identified, supply it within brackets. If it cannot be identified with certainty, describe the series numbers in a note.

Title: Overture to Saul

Extent: p. 112-115 of music ; 34 cm.

Note: As early as 1800, arrangements of Handel's overtures arranged by Mazzinghi were published by Goulding, Phipps & D'Almaine. This edition, perhaps detached from a larger work, may have been separately published as part of two series. Series numbering appears as part of the caption (no. 28) and at the bottom of page 112 (no. 10). Cf. Edith B. Schnapper, British Union-Catalogue of Early Music, v. 1, p. 422.[10]

AACR2
1.6B1. If an item is issued in a series, transcribe the title proper of the series as instructed in 1.1B. . . .

Guidelines:

Laurel octavo ; no. 1289

Le Papillon ; no. 6

The Piano forte player ; no. 3

AACR2
1.6B2. If different forms of the title of the series (other than parallel titles) appear, choose the title given in the first of the prescribed sources for the series area as the title proper of the series. Give the other form(s) in the note area if of value in identifying the item. . . .

Guidelines:

Series title: Collection of sacred songs, duets, trios, &c. by Oliver Shaw

Note: Series title in caption: Collection of sacred songs, duetts, trios, etc. by O. Shaw

AACR2
1.6C. Parallel titles of series
1.6C1. Follow the instructions in 1.1D (second level of description) when transcribing the parallel titles of a series. . . .
1.6D. Other title information of series
1.6D. Give other title information of a series only if it provides valuable information identifying the series. Follow the instructions in 1.1E when transcribing other title information of a series. . . .

Guidelines:

Five songs for contralto or baritone : op. 76 / by Dudley Buck (Storm and Sunshine, appendix, p. 161-65)

AACR2
1.6E. Statements of responsibility relating to series
1.6E1. Transcribe statements of responsibility appearing in conjunction with the series title only if they are considered to be necessary for identification of the series. Follow the instructions in 1.1F when transcribing a statement of responsibility relating to a series. . . .

Guidelines:

The names of the composers and arrangers should be considered necessary for identification:

Vocal beauties of the Huguenots / by Giacomo Meyerbeer

L'Africaine / musique de G. Meyerbeer

A collection of the most admired waltzes / composed & arranged for two performers on one piano forte by Johann Strauss

AACR2
1.6G. Numbering within series
1.6G1. Give the numbering of the item within the series in the terms given in the item. Use abbreviations as instructed in appendix B and numerals as instructed in appendix C. . . .

Guidelines:

Vocal beauties of the Huguenots / by Giacomo Meyerbeer.

L'Africaine / musique de G. Meyerbeer ; 21

A collection of the most admired waltzes / composed & arranged for two performers on one piano forte by Johann Strauss ; no. 1

Subseries should be treated as they are for nonmusic materials: G. Schirmer's octavo church music. First series.

AACR2
5.7. NOTE AREA
5.7A2. In making notes, follow the instructions in 1.7A.
1.7A4. Notes citing other editions and works
Other editions. In citing another edition of the same work, give enough information to identify the edition cited. . . .
Other works and other manifestations of the same work. In citing other works and other manifestations of the same work (other than different editions with the same title), always give the title and (when applicable) the statement(s) of responsibility. Give the citation in the form: main entry heading, title proper; or in the form: title proper / statement of responsibility. When necessary, add the edition and/or date of publication of the work cited. . . .

Guidelines:

Follow the instructions to use all of the rules in 1.7A as applicable to the item in hand. Some of the more frequently encountered situations are discussed here, but the cataloger will need to consult the general rules for notes as well. Notes indicating that the item in hand is related to another work (i.e., under AACR2 1.7A4) might include:

The title of the song being parodied or "answered" by the item being cataloged

"Companion song to Please go 'way and let me sleep."

"Companion song to Long boy."

"Answer song to Hello my baby."

AACR2
5.7B. Notes
Make notes as set out in the following subrules and in the order given there. However, give a particular note first when it has been decided that note is of primary importance.
5.7B1. Form of composition and medium of performance. If the musical form of a work is not apparent from the rest of the description, give the form in a word or brief phrase. . . .

Guidelines:

Song.

AACR2
5.7B1. [continued] Name the medium of performance for which a musical work is intended unless it is named in the rest of the description in English or in foreign language terms that can be readily understood. Name voices before instruments. Name the voices and then the instruments in the order in which they are listed in the item being described. Name a voice or instrument in English unless there is no satsifactory English equivalent.

If the work is for solo instruments, name them all if no more than eleven would be named. If the work is for an orchestra, band, etc., do not list the instruments involved. In describing ensemble vocal music, add to the appropriate term a parenthetical statement of the component voice parts, using S (soprano), Mz (mezzo-soprano), A (alto), T (tenor), Bar (baritone), and B (bass). Repeat an abbreviation, if necessary, to indicate the number of parts. . . .

Guidelines:

For piano.

For unacc. voice.

For high voice and piano.

For alto (or bar.) and piano.

For women's voices (SSAA), chorus (SATB), and organ.

For chorus (SSAATBB) with keyboard acc., ad lib.

For voice and continuo ; unrealized figured bass.

For voice and piano (or guitar or German flute).

For voice and piano, with chord diagrams for ukulele; acc. originally for orchestra.

For voice and piano, with chord symbols for guitar.

For voice and piano, with chord symbols for unspecified instrument.

March for voice and guitar.

AACR2
5.7B1. [continued] If the information relating to the medium of performance given in the rest of the description is ambiguous or insufficient, record supplementary information here. . . .

Guidelines:

Song for high voice and piano, part for guitar.

(Title page reads: For high voice and piano or guitar)

AACR2
5.7B2. Language. Give the language(s) of the textual content of the work unless this is apparent from the rest of the description. Indicate vocal texts published with part of the music. . . .

Guidelines:

French and English words.

Latin words.

French words, English translation on p. [2]

AACR2
5.7B3. Source of title proper. Make notes on the source of the title proper if it is other than the chief source of information. . . .

Guidelines:

Title from caption.

or,

Caption title.

AACR2
5.7B4. Variations in title. Make notes on titles borne by the item other than the title proper. Optionally, give a romanization of the title proper.
Title on cover: Love songs of Lennon & McCartney

Guidelines:

Note: Title in caption: Mist in the meadow.

Note: Title in caption: Norine Maureen.

AACR2
5.7B5. Parallel titles and other title information. Give the title in another language and other title information not recorded in the title and statement of responsibility area if they are considered to be important.

Guidelines:

For the third level of description, treat first lines of text and chorus (or refrain) as other title information and make a note and optional title added entry. First lines provide useful access to vocal sheet music, as often this is the only information about a song the user recalls. The Working Group strongly recommends the addition of first lines notes and added entries. The following is a good example of a song readily identified by the first line of text, but known less by its title page title.

Title: Old folks at home / E.P. Christy.

Note: By Stephen Collins Foster; attribution to E.P. Christy is erroneous.

Note: First line of text: Way down upon de Swanee ribber.

Note: First line of refrain: All de world am sad and dreary.

AACR2
5.7B6. Statements of responsibility. Make notes on variant names of persons or bodies named in statements of responsibility if these are considered to be important for identification. Give statements of responsibility not recorded in the title and statement of responsibility area. Make notes on persons or bodies connected with a work, or significant persons or bodies connected with previous editions and not already named in the description. . . .

Guidelines:

Persons or bodies connected with sheet music includes arrangers, lyricists, librettists, poets, performers, printers, illustrators, artists, lithographers and lithography companies, photographers, dedicatees, commissioners, etc.

Ukulele arr. by May Singhi Breen.

Text from Isaiah.

AACR2
5.7B16. Other formats. Give the details of other formats in which the content of the item has been issued.

Guidelines:

Notes may be made for alternative voice ranges or instrumentation (third level of description). Strictly speaking, the first note should be a statement of the medium of performance, but, in sorting out questions of edition, issue, etc., it is convenient to have the information in the same note. Additionally, rule 1.7B allows the cataloger to give a particular note first "when it has been decided that note is of primary importance."

On item: "High/low voice", with high voice underlined or checked.

(Item in hand is for high voice)

Note: For high voice and piano.

On item: "Voice and piano / Voice and guitar"

(Item in hand is for voice and piano)

Optional note: Issued also for voice and guitar.

Note: "Get this song on record."

Note: "Get this for your player piano."

AACR2
5.7B18. Contents. List the separately titled works contained in an item. Add to the titles opus numbers (if they are necessary to identify the works named) and statements of responsibility not already included in the title and statement of responsibility area. If the works in a collection are all in the same musical form and that form is named in the title proper of the item, do not repeat the musical form in the titles in the contents note. . . .
Make notes on additional or partial contents when appropriate.

5.7B19. Publishers' numbers and plate numbers. Give publishers' numbers and/or plate numbers that appear on the item. Precede the numbers by Publisher's no.: or Pl. no.:, as appropriate. If a number is preceded by an abbreviation, word, or phrase designating a publisher, give that abbreviation, word, or phrase as part of the number. In describing an item in several volumes, give inclusive numbers if the numbering is consecutive; otherwise give individual numbers or, if there are more than three of these, the first number and the last number separated by a diagonal slash. Give letters preceding a number before the first number, letters following a number after the last number, but letters preceding and following numbers in conjunction with each number. . . .

Guidelines:

Pl. no.: D. & C. No. 7260.

Publisher's no.: 4188.

AACR2
5.7B19. [continued] In describing a reprint, give the plate or publisher's number(s) together with the statement that the item is a reprint (see 5.7B7).
Reissued from Brandus plates. Pl. no.: B. et Cie 4520

Guidelines:

The Working Group emphasizes the importance of publisher and plate number information, recommending inclusion in all levels of records. If possible, give the name of the original plate owner. Resources such as Wolfe's Secular Music in America 1801-1825 are very valuable in researching plate numbers of American imprints during the early part of the nineteenth century.

Reissued in 1823 or 1824 from the plates of A. Bacon and Vallotte & Lété with imprint altered. Cf. Wolfe.

5.7B20. Copy being described, library's holdings, and restriction on use. Make these notes as instructed in 1.7B20.
Library has 6 parts . . .
1.7B20. Give important descriptive details of the particular copy being described.

Guidelines:

Library's copy imperfect: t.p. wanting.

Library's copy imperfect: trimmed to 22 cm.

Library's copy imperfect: trimmed to 20 cm. with loss of imprint information.

Library's copy 4 has trimmed edges.

Library's copy in torn and fragile condition.

The notes constructed under 5.7B20 are intended to apply only to the individual copy held in a collection. Such notes should be entered into the shared cataloging utilities as local holdings information. The only exception to this should be the case where the note about the imperfect copy explains data (or lack of data) in the title transcription, publisher statement, or extent of item. In the following example the note explains why most of the other elements of description are enclosed in square brackets.

Soldier's Suit of Grey (appendix, p. 155-57)

Title: [The soldier's suit of grey / words by Carrie B. Sinclair ; music by E. Charles Ilsley]

Extent: 1 score (5 p.) ; 31 cm.

Note (500): Library's copy imperfect. All before p. 5 wanting. Title and imprint information supplied from Parrish & Willingham. $5 NcD [The $5 would not be appear in the public display or on printed cards]

5.8. STANDARD NUMBER and TERMS OF AVAILABILITY AREA
5.8B. Standard number
5.8B1. Give the International Standard Book Number (ISBN) or International Standard Serial Number (ISSN) assigned to an item as instructed in 1.8B.
ISBN 0-19-341508-9

Guidelines:

Standard numbers do not appear on historic sheet music. International application of the ISMN may mean sheet music will be issued with standard numbers in the future.

AACR2
5.8B2. Give any other number in a note (see 5.7B19).

Guidelines:

B.7B19 refers to Publisher's numbers and plate numbers.

AACR2
5.8D. Optional addition. Terms of availability
5.8D1. Give the terms on which the item is available as instructed in 1.8D.
ISBN 0-333-17848-3 : £4.50 . . .

Guidelines:

Price: Ignore price for first and second (core) cataloging levels. Make a note in enhanced cataloging, if needed to distinguish various issues or states.

Optional notes:

"2-1/2 piano, 1-1/2 guitar"--T.p.

"Price 25 cts nett."--T.p.

"4"--T.p.

"2-1/2 piano, 1-1/2 [crossed through; 20 written in] guitar"--T.p.

Some prices on older sheet music are measured in "bits"; i.e., "half-quarters," or twelve and one-half cents. Thus "4" means four bits or fifty cents. Some sheet music issued prior to 1930 used a price code in units of ten cents. Generally these items have a large "3.5," "5," or "6" on their title pages, indicating thirty-five, fifty, or sixty cents to the retailer before markup. Typically price information will appear in optional notes, rather than following an ISBN or ISSN.

Chapter 2

Sheet Music Access and Authority Control

Suggested Access Points

The characteristics of sheet music may pose more problems when choosing access points than encountered in other types of materials. The potential access points listed below are offered as suggestions for both main and added entries. Institutions typically have their own requirements regarding such matters, and the needs of the local user community must always take precedence. Nonetheless, it is hoped this list underscores the distinct characteristics of sheet music, and that it may prove useful to individuals and institutions in developing project to catalog sheet music collections. Items marked with an asterisk (*) are worthy of special consideration, and are discussed in chapter 1 and in the subsequent sections of this chapter.

Musical Forms and Genres

Song forms (ballads, catches, glees, etc.)

Instrumental forms (preludes, nocturnes, sonatas, etc.)

Dance forms (polkas, tangos, waltzes, etc.)

Medium of performance (flute music, piano, music, violin music)

Special circumstances (Christmas music, patriotic music, sacred music)

Points of Special Consideration

Dealers and distributors: Added entries for these personal or corporate names may be desirable, particularly if the firm is of local historical interest. Typically these names have been hand-stamped on an item or appear on a label affixed to it.

Engravers, lithographers, printers, and publishers: Printers and publishers are not generally traced in normal cataloging. Added entries for printers or publishers—whether personal or corporate names—are frequently desirable in sheet music cataloging, especially for items issued before 1850. Such entries are traced in direct order as they appear on the item or in standard reference sources. Increasingly, electronic catalogs facilitate keyword searching of imprint information, alleviating the need for these added entries in such systems.

Titles: Musical works frequently employ generic titles consisting of the name of a compositional form, frequently modified by key and sometimes by a number:

Etude in A major

Galop in D

Prelude no. 3 in C major

Sonata op. 4, no. 2 in B minor

Generally such titles are not traced as they are not distinctive unless linked to a composer's name. Modification of a generic term, however, frequently lends sufficient distinction to warrant a tracing:

Angelina waltz

Gladiola rag

Golden star polka

President Lincoln's march

Sample Subject Headings

Access to the Musical Work

Reference sources: Library of Congress Subject Headings. Do not use the subject heading "Sheet music" for the music itself. That term is used for books about sheet music.

Afro-American women — Songs and music

Afro-Americans — Songs and music

Airplanes — Songs and music

Alabama — Songs and music

Automobiles — Songs and music

Mothers — Songs and music

Patriotic music — United States

Piano music

Popular music — To 1901

Popular music — 1901-1910

Smoking — Songs and music (For songs about smoking)

Suwannee River (Ga. and Fla.) — Songs and music

Transportation — Songs and music

Waltzes (Note that an additional heading is made for the medium of performance, e.g., Piano music)

Women aircraft industry workers — Songs and music

Women — France — Paris — Songs and music

Access to the Illustrations

These examples are only a small sample of the kinds of Library of Congress subject headings that may be given.

Conductors

Metropolitan Opera (New York, N.Y.) — Pictorial works

Ocean State Theater (Providence, R.I.) — Pictorial works

Smoking — Songs and music (For songs about smoking)

Smoking — Pictorial works (For illustrations of people smoking)

Theaters — Rhode Island — Providence — Pictorial works

Access to Genre Terms

Authority Control

Authority control for names and subject headings is the same as for other music. The sources for verification of form of name, dates, etc. may vary somewhat from the standard places, but, with experience, it is not that difficult. Many of the resources that are useful for cataloging are listed in the bibliography.

Applying uniform titles to sheet music is sometimes difficult, and the cataloger should consult the many published rule interpretations and decisions concerning this matter. Most sheet music does not require uniform titles, as distinctive titles are generally present. Items representing part of a larger whole, however, particularly those associated with musical productions such as operas, operettas, musicals, etc., generally benefit from the application of uniform titles:

Vocal gems from Eileen

Uniform title: [Eileen. Vocal score. Selections; arr.]

Potpourri and waltz from H.M.S. Pinafore arranged for piano

Uniform title: [H.M.S. Pinafore. Selections; arr.]

June is bustin' out all over

Uniform title: [Carousel. June is bustin' out all over. Vocal score]

Mandatory if present

Optional to make added entry for a series. If a series is traced, it must be in an authoritative form supported by a national-level authority record. Other aspects of series treatment are local in nature.

5xx (Notes)

Optional, except the following. The basis for the recommendation is that only those notes that support identification of an item need be included. These criteria will vary from one form of material to another. With respect to justification of added entries, that function may be provided alternatively in some cases through other data elements, e.g., the tagging itself or use of relators. See also AACR2, chapter 5, and the guidelines issued by the Library of Congress as published in the Music Cataloging Bulletin.

500 (General Note) Required for source of title if not from title page

505 (Contents Note) Required for multipart items with separate titles

500 Publisher's numbers and plate numbers. Mandatory if present on item

533 (Reproduction note) Required for reproductions

6xx (Subject Access Fields)

Required if appropriate. Assign 1 or 2 subject headings at the appropriate level of specificity from an established thesaurus or subject heading system recognized by USMARC. More than 2 may be assigned.

7xx (Added Entries)

Required if applicable. Assign 1) a complement of added entries that covers at least the primary relationships associated with a work (e.g., joint authors); 2) added entries to bring out title access information judged to be important. For both 1) and 2) above, determination of primary relationships and of the relative importance of title access information are intended to reflect either individual cataloger's judgment or the institutional policy of the participant.

8xx (Series) see 440/8xx above

Third (Enhanced) Level

For the third level of detail, include all elements set out in AACR2 that are applicable to the item being described. That is, enhance the second level to include any or all applicable information.

260 Publication, Distribution, etc.: include the address(es) of publishers

5xx (Notes)

Examples of some that could be included:

Illustrations, including names of artists & engravers

1xx Main Entry (if applicable)

240 Uniform title (as in full cataloging)

245 Title page transcription (all subfields if applicable)
Note: In cases of multiple parallel titles, MINIMALLY include the first title and any English parallel title.

246 Varying form of title. Use judgement in assessing each item and assign a complement of title variants . . . as appropriate.

250 Edition statement (all subfields if applicable)

260 Imprint. Supply the data appropriate to subfields $a and $b if readily available, use [S.l.] and [s.n.] as appropriate.

300 Physical description (all subfields if applicable)

4xx Series statement

Transcribe series as found on an item in either a 490 or 440 field. Follow national standards for tracing practice.

5xx Notes.

The 2002 revision has fewer required notes. Only those notes that support the identification of the item need be included. Notes are not required to justify added entries.

500 Form of composition and medium of performance if not stated or implied elsewhere in the record. A note on original medium may be made if applicable to the entire item.

500 Language of sung text if not implied from 240 or 245.

505 Contents note

510 Citation/References note

This field is used to shorten the descriptive detail in the bibliographic record and to direct the reader to further information.

533 Reproduction note

500 Publisher/Plate numbers for music. (Make only when an intelligible note in accord with AACR2 cannot be generated from the 028 field.)

6xx Subject headings

Assign from an established thesaurus or subject heading system at least one or two subject headings at the appropriate level of specificity. Note: The recommendation is cast in the form of "one or two" to convey the idea that one is not an absolute limit, to preclude any agonizing that might be stimulated by the limit to one, and to accommodate certain situations in which multiple subject headings are called for. The inclusion of the phrase "at least" is intended to indicate that the stipulation, while describing a sufficiency for the core record, is not necessarily a strict upper limit.

7xx Added entries

Using judgment and assessing each item on a case-by-case basis, assign:

1. a complement of added entries that covers at least the primary relationships associated with a work (e.g., arranger, editor, librettist).

2. an analytical added entry for the second work when a publication containing two works is entered under the first.

3. analytical added entries for classical music may be made as in full cataloging. Otherwise, use judgment in making additional analytical added entries.

4. added entries to bring out title access information judged to be important.

Note: For both 1 and 4 above, determination of primary relationships and of the relative importance of title access information are intended to reflect either individual cataloger's judgment or the institutional policy of the participant.

8xx Established form of series if different from that in 490 field. If series is traced, use as appropriate.

National Level Bibliographic Record Summary

The following list compares the requirements for the NLBR full, PCC core, and NLBR minimal records. Part 1 contains the required fields for records for "book" items, which are the items encompassed by the core record in Attachment A. Part 2 contains the control information that is in all records and is system supplied. Part 3 gives the NLBR for records for special types of "booklike" items. Part 4 contains the NLBR for records for nonbook items. Square brackets [ ] enclose tags and field names that are not in the NLR full or minimal record. The complete summary may be found at: http://lcweb.loc.gov/marc/bibliographic/nlr/.

Guide to the Examples

Each example consists of reproductions of title pages, caption titles, or other bibliographic information, followed by the cataloging as it might be displayed to patrons in a public access catalog and the MARC or tagged view used by catalogers. The MARC tags, spacing, and delimiters follow OCLC practice. Optional fields are displayed with an asterisk (*) at the beginning of the line. For each example, three levels of cataloging are given, first in the public display, then in the tagged display.

The following table shows the "public display" headers used in the examples followed by the corresponding MARC tags and brief explanation of the content of the field.

Header	MARC tag	Brief explanation
Main entry:	100	Name of composer
Uniform title:	240	Conventional collective title used to collocate works
Title:	245	Title of the work, as transcribed from the title page, caption title, or other source
Title variant:	246	Additional title or phrase by which the work may be known
Edition:	250	Edition statements
Presentation:	254	Term indicating the physical presentation of the music (e.g., miniature score), if stated on the item
Published:	260	Information about place of publication, publisher, and date of publication
Physical desc.:	300	Physical description of the type of score, number of pages, illustrations, and vertical dimension
Series:		440/490/830 Series statement and series number
Note:		500/546 Free text information that clarifies, identifies, or further describes the work. Notes about the language of the lyrics or libretto display as a note but use the MARC tag 546.
Local note:	590	Local notes about condition of the copy held (autographs, trimmed, marginalia, condition, etc.)
Pub./Pl. no.:	028	Music publisher's number or plate number
Citation:	510	A note containing a reference or citation to a published description of the item
Contents note:	505	The titles of separate works or parts of an item
Subject:	600/610/650	Library of Congress subject headings
Subject:	653	Genre headings
Subject (local):	690	Locally assigned subject headings
Added entry:	700/710/730/740	A name or title that provides secondary access to the work

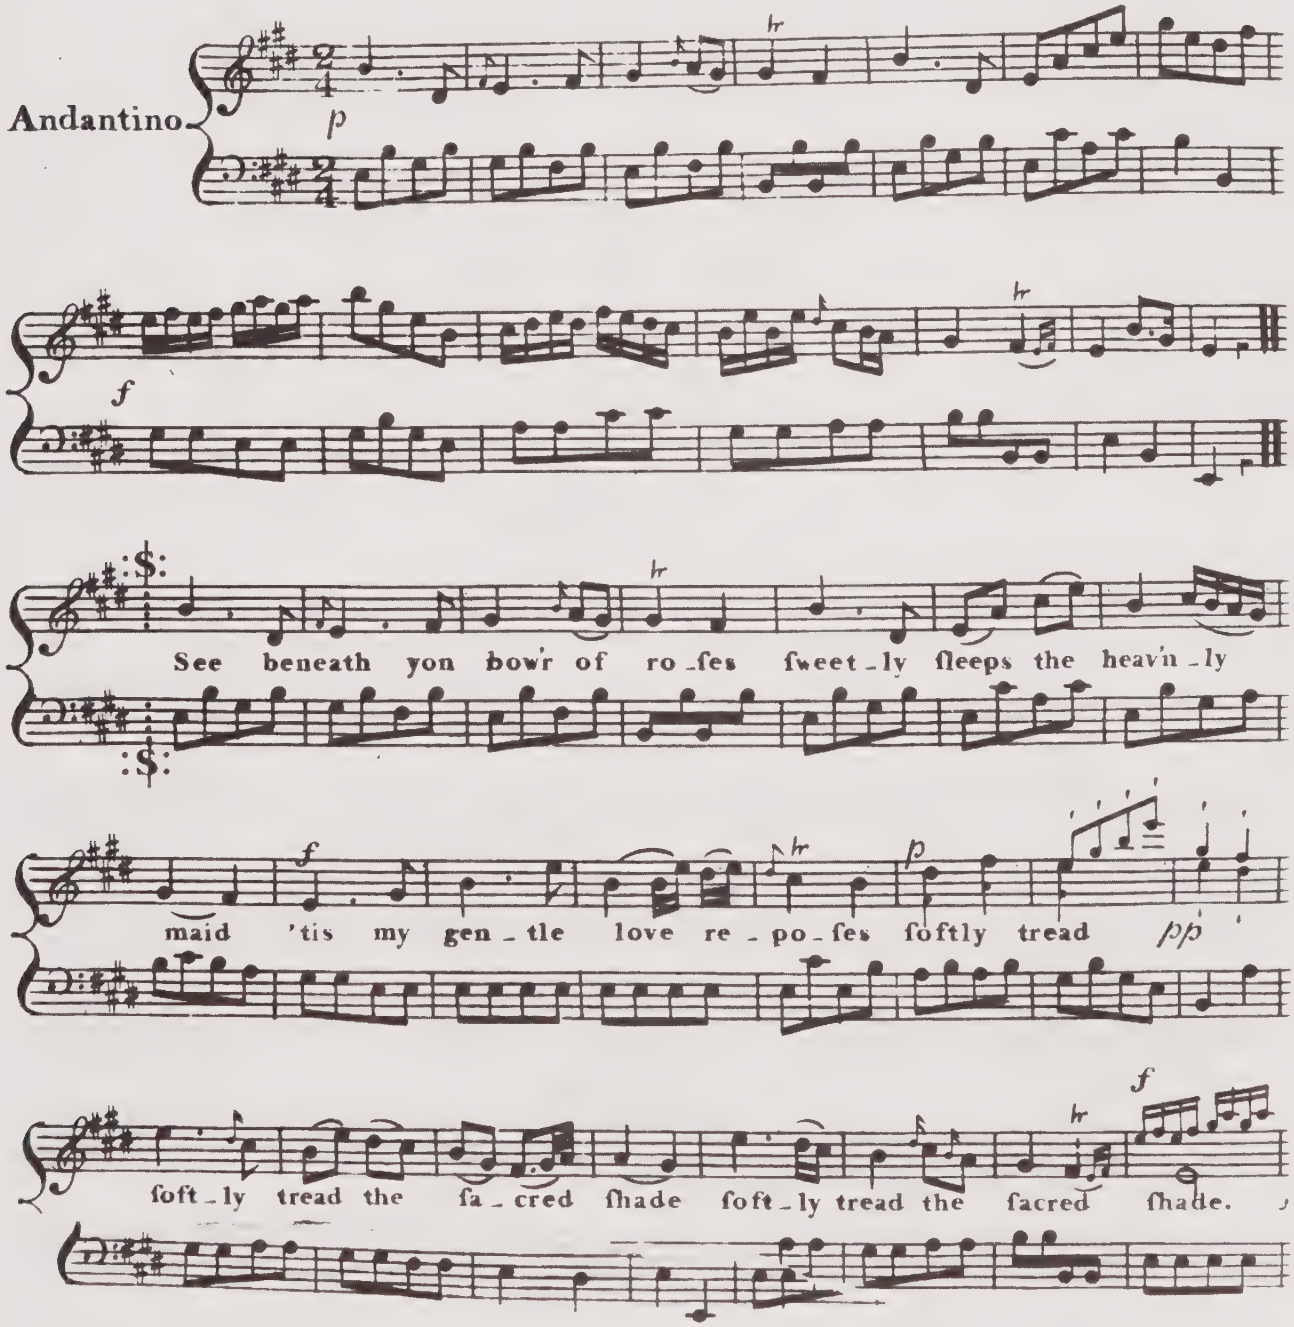
ELLA AND EDWIN.

A SONNET.

The Words by Miſs VAUGHAN. Compoſed by EDWARD BAILEY.

Nº 2. Organiſt of Sᵗ ASAPH'S Cathederal North Wales. Price 6ᵈ

Printed by I: Bland, at his Muſic Warehouſe Nº 45 Holborn.



Andantino
p
f
See beneath yon bow'r of ro-ſes ſweet-ly ſleeps the heav'n-ly maid 'tis my gen-tle love re-po-ſes ſoftly tread pp ſoft-ly tread the ſa-cred ſhade ſoft-ly tread the ſacred ſhade.

Mark the loves that play around her,
Mark my Ella's graceful mein,
See the wood-nymphs all furround her;
Hailing Ella, beauty's queen.

Fluttring Cupids round deſcending,
Soft expand their ſilken wings;
From the Zephyr's breath defending:
Evry ſweet that round her ſprings.

Sportive fancy hear my pray'r,
Gently from thy airy throne;
Whiſper to the ſleeping fair,
Edwin lives for her alone.

For the GUITAR.

It would be difficult to analyze this serial since the only composer or title information is from the "catch words" on the engraved plates. For no. 2, there is an indication that the work is Gli Orazi ed i Curiazi by Cimarosa. In the case of no. 4, only the word Himmel appears, although a comparison of the music with scores by Himmel reveal that it is the overture to Fanchon des Leyermädchen. It is possible that no. 1 of the serial was published before 1801 since the premiere of the Cimarosa was in December 1796. Although these titles are not listed in RISM or the British Union-Catalogue of Early Music Printed Before the Year 1801 the cataloger should use judgment about whether to provide the enhanced description and access appropriate to early printed materials (see the optional additions below).

THE FLOWERS COLLECTION

God bless ev - ery sol - dier lad, who wears a suit of grey.
God bless ev - ery sol - dier lad, who wears a suit of grey.
God bless ev - ery sol - dier lad, who wears a suit of grey.
God bless ev - ery sol - dier lad, who wears a suit of grey.

Brass buttons and gold lace I know are beautiful to view,
And then, to tell the honest truth, I own I like them too;
Yet should a thousand officers come crowding round to-day,
I'd scorn them for a lad who wears a simple suit of grey!

Chorus.—Hurrah, hurrah, etc.

God bless our Southern soldiers! for every one is dear,
And God defend each gallant form no matter what they wear;
For each has acted well his part, yet still in truth I say,
The bravest of the brave are those who wear a suit of grey!

Chorus.—Hurrah, hurrah, etc.

Tho' torn and faded be each coat, their buttons tarnished too,
I know beneath each soldier's dress a Southern heart beats true;
We honor every gallant son who fights for us to-day,
And Heaven protect the noble boys who wear the suit of grey!

Chorus.—Hurrah, hurrah, etc.

They bravely strike for Freedom, and on the battle-field,
They are the first to strike a blow, and they the last to yield:
At Richmond and Manassas who was it won the day?
It was our noble Southern boys all clad in suits of grey!

Chorus.—Hurrah, hurrah, etc.

God bless our Southern soldiers! for each we breathe a prayer,
And over every fallen son we shed a mourners tear!
Oh! sacred be the graves of those who died so far away,
And honored be each one who sleeps clad in the suit of grey!

[Omit Chorus to this verse.]

Round every patriot soldier's brow the laurel wreath entwines,
And round the battle-flag they bear, a ray of glory shines:
And when the foe is conquered with pride we then will say,
All honor to the noble boys, who wear the suit of grey!

Chorus.—Hurrah, hurrah, etc.

In the case of missing title pages, cataloging should always be at the second level or above, so that the imperfections may be noted.

Glossary

AACR2
Accompanying Material. Material issued with, and intended to be used with, the item being catalogued.

AACR2
Adaptation (Music). A musical work that represents a distinct alteration of another work (e.g., a free transcription); a work that paraphrases parts of various works or the general style of another composer; a work that is merely based on other music (e.g., variations on a theme). See also Arrangement (Music).

Advance Artist Copy. See Professional Copy.

AACR2
Arrangement (Music). A musical work, or a portion thereof, rewritten for a medium of performance different from that for which the work was originally intended; a simplified version of a work for the same medium of performance. See also Adaptation (Music).

Artist Copy. See Artist's Copy.

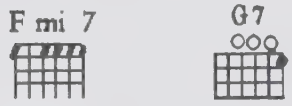
Artist's Copy. A special issue featuring notation in two sizes on a single staff. Printed on small (26.5 cm. x 17.5 cm.), thin sheets. Distributed gratis to radio stations by publishers to promote their songs.

Binder's Collection. An item consisting of separate publications bound together after their issue on the owner's instructions, occasionally reflecting organization by genre, instrumentation, composer, or chronology; but more often lacking apparent order. Items within such volumes have typically been trimmed to a uniform size, sometimes with damage to their content. Loose items, formerly contained in binder's collections are frequently encountered. See also Disbound.

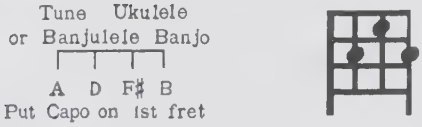
AACR2
Caption Title. A title given at the beginning of the first page of the text or, in the case of a musical score, immediately above the opening bars of the music.

Chord Diagrams. Schematic drawings using vertical and horizontal lines to represent strings and frets and numbered dots to indicate positions of the fingers. Chord diagrams for guitar employ six vertical lines; while those for ukulele or tenor banjo use four. See also Chord Symbols.

Guitar: Note that in these guitar examples the chord symbols (i.e., F mi 7 and G 7) are on top, the chord diagram is below.



Ukulele:



Chord Symbols. Alpha-numeric abbreviations of chord names for performance by ukulele, tenor banjo, or guitar.

F mi 7

See also Chord Diagrams.

AACR2
Chorus Score. A score of a vocal work showing only the chorus parts, with accompaniment, if any, arranged for keyboard instrument. See also Vocal Score.

AACR2
Close Scores. A musical score giving all the parts on a minimum number of staves, normally two, as with hymns.

Collector's Binding. See Binder's Collection.

Collector's Volume. See Binder's Collection.

AACR2
Colophon. A statement at the end of an item giving information about one or more of the following: the title, author(s), publisher, printer, date of publication or printing. It may include other information.

Guidelines:
Additionally, the Library of Congress Rule Interpretations, appendix D, p. 1 (September 1996) amplifies the information from AACR2:

> For books, a colophon is a statement appearing at the end of the printed matter of a book, i.e., at the foot of the last page or on another leaf at the end of the book. Books with paper covers may carry a colophon on the recto or verso of the back cover. The colophon gives information about its printing; it may also give the book's author and title. In a few cases the colophon may give information about the publishing of the book instead of, or in addition to, information about printing . . . Confine the application of the AACR2 provisions for colophon information to the kinds of data given above. Do not stretch the concept of a colophon to cover other kinds of data simply because these data are placed in the book more or less in the position of a colophon (e.g., "Index by Mary Frances Kerr Donaldson ..." or "Prepared by the Research Department, United States League" [both at the foot of the last page of text]). The presence of this or any other information instead of colophon information means that the data do not represent a colophon.

Combination Copy. See Nu-Style Multi-Part Edition.

Copyright Copy. See Professional Copy.

Copy-Specific Information. Features not part of the issue's original state, but unique to the specific copy being described. Examples include inked or penciled markings, signatures, hand-colored illustrations, stamps and labels, additional materials laid or bound in, and the copy's physical condition.

Cover. A wrapper made of material different from that used throughout the rest of the publication. Covers may be made of vellum, paper, fabric, plastic, etc. If paper, the wrapper differs in thickness, texture, color, or type compared to the paper on which the score is printed. Covers may or may not feature lettering or illustrations. Despite the popular usage of this term among collectors, most sheet music does not have covers, but rather decorative title pages.
See also Illustrated Title Page and Title Page.

Disbound. Used to describe items that have been removed from binder's collections. Such items typically show evidence of previous binding, such as glue residue, stitching holes in the gutter, and occasionally traces of thread.
See also Unbound.

AACR2
Edition: Books, pamphlets, fascicles, single sheets, etc. All copies produced from essentially the same type image (whether by direct contact or by photographic or other methods) and issued by the same entity. See also Impression, Issue, Reprint.

See also State.

Edition Statement. Indicates regular updating or re-impression of the item. True edition statements are uncommon in sheet music. Three criteria are applied to identify them:

1. self-defining statements similar to those commonly found on monographs employing such words as "edition," "issue," "version," or their abbreviations and accompanied by a number;
2. statements using forms or abbreviations of the words "revised" and/or "new," either separately or in conjunction, as modifiers, or with modifiers;
3. statements of vocal ranges on songs, song cycles, sets, or collections of songs that are not grammatically linked to the title statement or additional title information.

Example of voice range marking:

Folio. Bibliographically, a sheet of paper folded in half to produce four pages. In the parlance of sheet music publishers, retailers, and collectors, a paper-bound anthology of items previously issued as separate publications. This term is used in its bibliographical sense throughout these guidelines.

For Professional Use Only. See Professional Copy.

Illustrated Title Page. Generally the first page of an item. It bears the title proper and frequently includes both the statement of responsibility and publication information. Additionally, this page will carry some type of illustration; including calligraphic swashes, cartouches, engraved or lithographed scenes or portraits, photographs, geometric or abstract designs, etc. From the nineteenth century onward, sheet music decorative title pages are typically printed in color. See also "List" Title Page, Passe-Partout, Series Title Page, and Title Page.

AACR2
Impression. All copies of an edition of a book, pamphlet, etc., printed at one time . . .

See also Edition, Issue, and State.

Incidental Music for Plays. See Stage Music.

Interlinear Lyrics. A format in which the lyrics are placed between the right- and left-hand staves of piano or organ music, eliminating a separate vocal line (duplicated in the right-hand staff), and thereby reducing size. Examples in sheet music are the Motion-Picture Edition and the PianOrgan Edition.

AACR2
Issues. Copies of an edition forming a distinct group that are distinguished from other copies of that edition by minor but well-defined variations (e.g., a new impression of a book for which minor revisions have been incorporated into the original type image). See also Impression, Reprint.

See also Edition, Impression, and State.

Lead Sheets. See Professional Copy.

List Title Page. A title page (or cover) that lists a group of related items available for purchase. Particulars of the item in hand are typically underlined or marked with a type ornament, such as a star, arrow, etc. S*ee also* Illustrated Title Page, Passe-Partout, Series Title Page, and Title Page.

Medium of Performance. A concise statement of the instrumental and/or vocal medium of performance for which a musical work is intended. (In the context of uniform titles, it is the original instrumentation. See AACR2, 25.30B1).

AACR2
Miniature Score. A musical score not primarily intended for performance use, with the notation and/or text reduced in size.

AACR2
Mixed Responsibility. A work of mixed responsibility is one in which different persons or bodies contribute to its intellectual or artistic content by performing different kinds of activities (e.g., adapting or illustrating a work written by another person) ...

Motion-Picture Edition. A special issue developed to aid pianists and organists accompanying silent films in darkened cinemas. The score eliminates a separate vocal line by duplication in the right-hand, uses interlinear lyrics, and is printed in oblong format (30.5 cm. x 48 cm.) as a negative image—white notation on dark green or black paper. Each side presents a different song.

Movie Music. See Stage Music.

AACR2
Musical Presentation Statement. A term or phrase found in the chief source of information of a publication of printed music . . . that indicates the physical presentation of the music (e.g., score, miniature score, score and parts). This type of statement should be distinguished from one that indicates an arrangement or edition of a musical work (e.g., vocal score, 2-piano edition, version with orchestra accompaniment, chorus score).

See also Edition.

Musical Supplement. A score, or collection of scores, issued supplementary to a newspaper (typically on Sundays) or other serial (typically as a separate issue). Example: Strolling with Your Summer Girl. (appendix, p. 166-68)

Nu-Style Multi-Part Edition (also Combination Copy). A special issue that includes five instrumental parts on the verso of its title page and recto of its last page. Inserted is a standard format sheet music score with separate vocal line, piano staves, chord diagrams for ukulele, and chord names for guitar or banjo. The parts are for tenor banjo solo, Hawaiian guitar solo, C-melody, E-flat alto, B-flat tenor saxophones, or similarly pitched instruments. The saxophone parts include optional duets by presenting the solo lines in normal-sized notes with duet parts printed on the same staves in smaller notes.

Original (also Original Copy). Term used by publishers to describe the standard sheet music issues of the Tin Pan Alley era—a score comprised of a vocal line, piano staves, and names of chords or diagrams, generally with an illustrated title page and advertisements.

AACR2
Part (Music). The music for one of the participating voices or instruments in a musical work; the written or printed copy of such a part for the use of a performer, designated in the physical description area as part.

Passe-Partout (Fr. "passes everywhere"). Title page featuring a frame, cartouche, or similar border with varying text set into its blank spaces. This text may constitute a series title page, or simply a list of related titles, with the item in hand indicated by underlining or by a type ornament; such as an arrow, bullet, star, etc. See also Illustrated Title Page, "List" Title Page, Series Title Page, and Title Page.

PianOrgan Edition. A special issue featuring a reduced score (the separate vocal line is eliminated and duplicated by the right-hand upper staff) with interlinear lyrics. Printed in oblong format (30.5 cm. x 46.5 cm.). Each side presents a different song. Likely intended for use by theater pianists and organists.

AACR2
Plate Number (Music). A numbering designation assigned to an item by a music publisher, usually printed at the bottom of each page, and sometimes appearing also on the title page. It may include initials, abbreviations, or words identifying a publisher and is sometimes followed by a number corresponding to the number of pages or plates. See also Publisher's Number.

Production Music. See Stage Music.

Professional Copy. Special issue distributed gratis by publishers to performers, retailers, recording companies, and other music industry professionals to promote sales. Issued before the "original" to test potential sales. Typically printed on less expensive paper, generally without an illustrated title page, and bearing "professional copy," or a similar phrase either printed or stamped on the item. Examples with illustrated title pages are encountered, but the illustration is generally in black ink only, rather than color, and may be simplified or reduced in size.

Examples:

Faithful Forever (Professional) (appendix, p. 93)

Joan of Arc (Artists' Copy) (appendix, p. 108)

Take It from There (Advance Artists' Copy) (appendix, p. 171)

Prominent.

AACR2
0.8. The word prominently (used in such phrases as prominently named and stated prominently) means that a statement to which it applies must be a formal statement found in one of the prescribed sources of information (see 1.0A) for areas 1 and 2 for the class of material to which the item being catalogued belongs.

Promotional Copy. See Special Sample Copy.

AACR2
Publisher's Number (Music). A numbering designation assigned to an item by a music publisher, appearing normally only on the title page, the cover, and/or the first page of music. It may include initials, abbreviations, or words identifying the publisher. See also Plate number (Music).

Radio version. See Professional copy.

AACR2
Reprint. 1. A new printing of an item made from the original type image, commonly by photographic methods. The reprint may reproduce the original exactly . . . or it may contain minor but well-defined variations . . . 2. A new edition with substantially unchanged text …

AACR2
Score. A series of staves on which all the different instrumental and/or vocal parts of a musical work are written, one under the other in vertical alignment, so that the parts may be read simultaneously …

AACR2
Serial. A publication in any medium issued in successive parts bearing numeric or chronological designations and intended to be continued indefinitely. Serials include periodicals; newspapers; annuals (reports, yearbooks, etc.); the journals, memoirs, proceedings, transactions, etc., of societies; and numbered monographic series. See also Series 1.

AACR2
Series. 1. A group of separate items related to one another by the fact that each item bears, in addition to its own title proper, a collective title applying to the group as a whole. The individual items may or may not be numbered. 2. Each of two or more volumes of essays, lectures, articles, or other writings, similar in character, and issued in sequence (e.g., Lowell's Among my books, second series). 3. A separately numbered sequence of volumes within a series or serial (e.g., Notes and queries, 1st series, 2nd series, etc.)
Series Title Page. An added title page bearing the series title proper and usually, though not necessarily, other information about the series (e.g., statement of responsibility, numeric designation, data relating to publication, title of the item within the series).

Guidelines:
A title page that carries the name of the publisher's series to which the item in hand belongs and may include additional relevant information such as series numbers, composers, imprint, etc. See also Illustrated Title Page, "List" Title Page, Passe-Partout, and Title Page. Example: Bland's Collection of Catches, Glees, &c., &c. (appendix, p. 68-70)

AACR2
Shared Responsibility. Collaboration between two or more persons or bodies performing the same kind of activity in the creation of the content of an item. The contribution of each may form a separate and distinct part of the item, or the contribution of each may not be separable from that of the other(s) …

Sheet Music. From the basic linguistic meanings of the component words, "sheet" and "music," it can be seen that in its most elemental sense, sheet music consists of musical notation printed on sheets of paper that remain unattached and unbound at the time of sale. From this basis, single sheets printed on one or both sides, folios (one sheet folded in half to form four pages), folios with a loose half-sheet inserted to yield six pages, double-folios (an inner folio inserted within the fold of an outer folio to make eight pages), and double-folios with a loose half-sheet inserted within the fold of an inner folio to produce ten pages, qualify as sheet music under this definition. Items surpassing the physical extent of these formats require thread, glue, staples, or some other type of fastener to keep their sheets organized and the items intact as bibliographical entities, and will likely have been issued with such fasteners. Items may be encountered that otherwise fit the parameters of this definition but include fasteners. It may be very difficult to determine whether these fasteners reflect the original state of the item or are the remains of postpurchase processes. In such cases, the extent of the item takes precedence over the presence of fasteners and determines if the item remains within the scope of this definition. For the purposes of these guidelines, sheet music is defined purely by physical format. Some have suggested that sheet music applies only to "popular" music, but a close look at these publications over the course of history shows that the musical content of these publications is as varied as the history of music itself. Especially in the mid-nineteenth century a publisher may have issued sacred and secular songs, Lieder, opera excerpts, potpourris, waltzes, marches, and descriptive etudes side-by-side. Only the physical format remains constant. For further discussion, see the Introduction to these Guidelines.

Show-Biz. See Stage Music.

Slide Version. A special issue featuring a reduced score (the separate vocal line is elminated and duplicated by the right-hand upper staff) with interlinear lyrics. Printed in oblong format (31 cm. x 48 cm.). Each side presents a different song. Throughout the score is a series of Arabic numbers in boxes intended to coordinate performance with a set of color projection slides that illustrate the lyrics.

Song-Writing Teams ("Words and music by x and y"). See Mixed responsibility and Shared responsibility.

Special Copy for Organists. See PianOrgan Edition.

Special Sample Copy. Special promotional issue consisting of a sheet folded in thirds with different songs on its recto and verso. Includes illustrated title page for each song.

Stage Music. Music intended for stage or theatrical performance. E.g., revues, musicals, operas, operettas, pageants, circuses, radio and television programs, films, and incidental music for plays.

State. Determined by contents of the item; i.e., changes in content constitute changes in state. See also Edition, Impression, and Issue.

Supplement. See Musical Supplement.

Television Programs (Music for). See Stage Music.

AACR2
Title Page. A page at the beginning of an item bearing the title proper and usually, though not necessarily, the statement of responsibility and the data relating to publication. The leaf bearing the title page is commonly called the "title page" although properly called the "title leaf." ...

See also Illustrated Title Page, "List" Title Page, Passe-Partout, Series Title Page.

Unbound. Used to describe items originally issued without bindings that have remained in that state. See also Disbound.

Variant or Variant State. See State.

AACR2
Vocal Score. A score showing all vocal parts, with accompaniment, if any, arranged for keyboard instrument. See also Chorus score.

Guidelines:
Note that vocal score is very similar to chorus score. The difference is that a piece in vocal score is not restricted to just vocal music but may be a combination of vocal and instrumental (e.g., operas, oratorios).

War Edition. A special issue printed during World War I to reduce paper consumption. Where the standard sheet music issue of this era measures 34 cm. x 27 cm., war editions are 26.5 cm. x 17.5 cm. Notation and illustrations are reduced in size accordingly.

Printed Bibliographies, Indexes, and Catalogs

These represent a variety of bibliographies and catalogs containing sheet music publishing information.

Chou, Michaelyn P., ed. Hawaiian Sheet Music Index: A Union Catalog. 2 vols. Honolulu: University of Hawaii Press, 1990.

Epstein, Dena. Music Publishing in Chicago before 1871: The Firm of Root & Cady, 1858-1871. Detroit studies in music bibliography, 14. Detroit, Information Coordinators, 1969.
There are brief entries, arranged by publisher, of music published in Chicago before the disastrous fire of 1871 with index by composers and titles.

Hoogerwerf, Frank. Confederate Sheet-Music Imprints. I.S.A.M. Monographs, 21. Brooklyn, N.Y., Institute for Studies in American Music, Conservatory of Music, Brooklyn College of the City Univ. of New York, c1984.
This is an extension of the work done on Confederate music publications done by Crandall and Harwell. The title page transcriptions are relatively brief (compared to the Wolfe bibliography, for example), but complete enough to distinguish variant titles. It is arranged alphabetically by composer (i.e., Crandall numbers) with indexes by author/composer, publisher, printers, lithographers, and engravers. See also Parrish & Willingham, Confederate Imprints.

Korda, Marion. Louisville Music Publications of the 19th Century. N.p., M. Korda, c1991.
These entries consist of standard cataloging using fairly extensive descriptions.

Lesure, François. Recueils Imprimés XVIe-XVIIe Siècles. International Inventory of Musical Sources, vol. BI. Munich: Henle, 1960-.

These two volumes by François Lesure in the International Inventory of Musical Sources, along with Karlheinz Schlager's Einzeldrucke vor 1800, form the cornerstones of music bibliography for the earliest manifestations of sheet music. The Lesure titles include collections of music, while the Schlager covers the publication of single works. Citations of the International Inventory of Musical Sources in catalog records are usually abbreviated in the form of the series: RISM, the series number, and the citation or page number. E.g., RISM, BI, p. 114.

———. Recueils Imprimés XVIIIe Siècles. International Inventory of Musical Sources, vol. BII. Munich: Henle, 1964.

Cited as: RISM, the series number, and the citation or page number. E.g., RISM, BII, p. 114.

Linn, Karen Elizabeth. Register of Sam DeVincent Collection of Illustrated American Sheet Music, ca. 1790-1980. 2 vols. Washington, D.C.: National Museum of American History, 1989.

Miles, William. Songs, Odes, Glees and Ballads: A Bibliography of American Presidential Campaign Songsters. New York: Greenwood Press, 1990.

Newberry Library. Catalog of the Driscoll Collection. Edited by Bernard E. Wilson. 3 vols. Boston: G. K. Hall, 1983.

Catalog entries use standard cataloging with fairly extensive description, arranged by main entry (e.g., composer). Additional index points are publisher and date.

Parrish, T. Michael, and Robert M. Willingham. Confederate Imprints: A Bibliography of Southern Publications from Secession to Surrender. Austin, Tex.: Jenkins; Katonah, N.Y.: G.A. Foster, [1987?].

This is now the standard source for information about all Confederate imprints. There is a brief entry for all known imprints (music and nonmusic). The predecessor was Marjorie Lyle Crandall's Confederate Imprints: A Check List Based Principally on the Collection of the Boston Athenaeum, 1955.

Schlager, Karlheinz, ed. Einzeldrucke vor 1800. 14 vols. International Inventory of Musical Sources, vol. A/I. Munich: Henle, 1971-1999.

This monumental work is the primary resource for identifying separately issued music, including sheet music, published before 1800. It is usually cited in bibliographic notes as: RISM, A/I, inventory number. E.g., RISM, A/I, T1112.

Schnapper, Edith B. The British Union-Catalogue of Early Music Printed before the Year 1801. 2 vols. London: Butterworths Scientific Publications, 1957.

This catalog has been somewhat replaced by the Lesure and Schlager volumes in the RISM series but remains useful because it often gives more complete information than the more recent bibliographies.

Shaw, Sarah. Rhode Island Sheet Music Index. Providence, R.I.: Brown Univ. Library, c1991.

A bibliography and index of 3,050 pieces of sheet music in the Rhode Island Sheet Music Collection at Brown University, related to Rhode Island culture and history, or printed in Rhode Island. Contains a 2,445 item bibliography (by composer), a list of 275 Rhode Island composers, and separate indexes to: titles, lyricists/poets, arrangers, illustrators/lithographers, associated music theater productions, publishers, place of publication, date, series, and subjects, including performers and local place-names. Data is also searchable at Brown University as a ProCite database.

Wolfe, Richard. Secular Music in America 1801-1825. 3 vols. New York: New York Public Library, 1964.

Transcription of the title page and many additional notes. The work is arranged by composer with indexes by title, first line of text, publishers, engravers, printers, publisher's plate numbers, and general index including authors.

Sample of Online Catalogs, Web Sites, and Databases with Sheet Music

There are many libraries that have cataloged their sheet music as part of their regular cataloging activities and added them to RLIN, OCLC, and their online catalogs. In some cases they have made local databases. The collections listed here just sample the information available. A selection of collections available on the web is available at: http://www.lib.duke.edu/music/sheetmusic/collections.html (2 Mar. 2003).

American Memory Project, http://lcweb2.loc.gov/ (2 Mar. 2003).
American Memory is a gateway to rich primary source materials relating to the history and culture of the United States. The site offers more than 7 million digital items from more than 100 historical collections.
Brown University, http://library.brown.edu/screens/opacmenu.html (2 Mar. 2003).
Full MARC cataloging records were created for sheet music in the following subject areas: songs and music about World War I and World War II, by or about African Americans, and settings of American poetry (including over 1,000 Longfellow settings).
California Sheet Music Project, http://www.sims.berkeley.edu/~mkduggan/neh.html (2 Mar. 2003).
A virtual library of about 2,000 pieces of sheet music published in California between 1852 and 1900, together with related materials.
Duke University Historic American Sheet Music, http://scriptorium.lib.duke.edu/sheetmusic/ (2 Mar. 2003).
The Historic American Sheet Music project provides digital access to over 3,000 pieces from the Duke University Library collections, published in the United States between 1850 and 1920.
Johns Hopkins University Lester S. Levy Collection, http://levysheetmusic.mse.jhu.edu/ (2 Mar. 2003).
The Levy Collection contains over 29,000 pieces of music and focuses on popular American music spanning the period 1780 to 1960. All the pieces of the collection are indexed on this site and a search will retrieve a catalog description of the pieces. An image of the illustrated title page and each page of music will also be retrieved if the music was published before 1923 and is in the public domain.
Library Company of Philadelphia
Access is through a NOTEBOOK software database, with manual card file. A few titles are in the online catalog, http://www.librarycompany.org/ (2 Mar. 2003).
University of Alabama
The Wade Hall collection of 5,000 items is cataloged in MARC format on OCLC and is available there and in their catalog, http://amelia.ua.edu/ (2 Mar. 2003).
University of Colorado, Boulder
The digital sheet music collection consists of about 150,000 examples from the late eighteenth century through the twentieth century, http://www-libraries.colorado.edu/mus/smp/index.html (2 Mar. 2003).
University of Oregon
The sheet music is indexed in a mainframe database of 20,000 items. The records are accessible on computer printouts in the library. Access is by song title, publisher, composer, lyricist, cover art, and decade. Information about the collection is available on the library website: http://libweb.uoregon.edu/music/sheet.html (2 Mar. 2003).
University of Pittsburgh
The Foster Hall Collection of Fosteriana received very detailed cataloging through a NEH grant (Dec. 1989-May 1992). The records are in MARC format on OCLC and the local PittCAT catalog. Sample records are OCLC#: 23318768, 24255876, 24255891, 24255911, 24255930. The catalog is available at:
http://www.library.pitt.edu/
(2 Mar. 2003).
University of New Hampshire Library, Milne Special Collections and Archives.
Alvah Sulloway Sheet Music and Theater Program Collection consists of sheet music, theater programs from 1899-1975, clippings, photographs and other show business materials.

About the Editors

Lois Schultz is Head of the Monographic Cataloging Section at Duke University Library. For nearly twenty years her duties included cataloging and indexing music, including rare sheet music. She was responsible for selecting and indexing the music in the Historic American Sheet Music project (http://scriptorium.lib.duke.edu/sheetmusic/), one of the collections that make up American Memory (http://memory.loc.gov/) at the Library of Congress. She is an active member of the Music Library Association and has served two terms as coordinator of the Sheet Music Round Table. She was also a founding member of the MLA/BCC Working Group for Sheet Music Cataloging Guidelines, becoming chair in 1995. She is currently part of a group of librarians investigating the use of Dublin Core and the Open Archives Initiative to provide access to sheet music collections. In addition to her professional interests involving sheet music, she is a member of the MARC Subcommittee of the Bibliographic Control Committee of the Music Library Association and was a member of the International Music Metadata Projects Working Group, charged with surveying the landscape to identify music metadata projects.

Sarah Shaw is Music Catalog Librarian at Brown University. From 1980-1984 she cataloged sheet music exclusively, working with materials from World War I, World War II, music by and about African-Americans, and musical settings of nineteenth century American poetry. Cataloging records from this project were subsequently linked to digital images to form the African-American Sheet Music, 1850-1920 (http://memory.loc.gov/ammem/award97/rpbhtml/aasmhome.html), part of American Memory at the Library of Congress. Active in the Music Library Association since 1980, she chaired the MLA/BCC Working Group for Sheet Music Cataloging Guidelines from 1992-1995, and is currently the chair of the New England Chapter of Music Library Association. Her publications include the Rhode Island Sheet Music Index (Brown University Library, 1991) and Sheet Music Cataloging and Processing: a Manual (Music Library Association, 1984), for many years a primary resource for sheet music catalogers nationally, and the precursor to this set of guidelines.

LIBRARIANSHIP

MUSIC LIBRARY ASSOCIATION TECHNICAL REPORTS, NO. 28

Sheet music has posed serious problems in definition, categorization, and bibliographical control to libraries throughout this century. Cataloging Sheet Music: Guidelines for Use with AACR2 and the MARC Format is written primarily to assist catalogers in archives, libraries, and museums with preparing standard catalog records in print or electronic format. The work references the Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules, Second Edition, a recognized cataloging standard, and includes explanations of music cataloging practice intended to aid non-music catalogers. Other discussions are designed to expand the music cataloger's understanding of sheet music publishing practices.

Although much of Cataloging Sheet Music emphasizes the description of the music, other sections are devoted to subject access to illustrations, first line/chorus/refrain text, illustrators, engravers, and publishers. Included are extensive reproductions of title pages from the eighteenth through mid-twentieth centuries, accompanied by examples of the cataloging. Each example includes three levels of description: minimal, core, and enhanced.

Lois Schultz is head of the monographic cataloging section at Perkins Library, Duke University, Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Sarah Shaw is catalog librarian (music) at Brown University, Providence, Rhode Island.
